SENTRIES FIRED UPON BY PICKETS LAST NIGHT

COL. BROWN REALS RETAILIATES

Sensations Of the Governor's Representative Upon Western Federation Pickets, and Exchange of Shots Which Followed.

Sentries at three points were fired upon shortly after 7 o'clock last night by parties supposed to be strikers. At one point an attempt was made to enter the sentry lines and the sentry on guard came near being hit. Information came to the military authorities that a concerted plan was on foot to rush the Portland mill and that warrants charging mill employes with carrying concealed weapons were to be served when the men came from work.

At 9:30 o'clock when these facts had been laid before Colonel James H. Brown, representative of the governor and legal adviser to the National guard, he appeared before Charles Burr, representative of the Western Federation of Miners and in charge of the strike at Colorado City, and the members of the executive committee of the Mill and Smelterman's union No. 125 of Colorado City, and commanded them to cease such tactics, announcing that if there was any more trouble he would hold each one of them responsible. He was accompanied by Sherman Bell, Captain Bryan and a picked detail of 13 men, who were placed in the front and rear of the union headquarters in the Reed block on Colorado avenue, and began picket duty.

"This," said Colonel Brown, "is to give you a taste of what picketing means."

The line of blue coats cleared the sidewalk in front of the headquarters and began picket duty. A large crowd gathered. Mayor Faulkner arrived hastily on the scene and conferred with Colonel Brown. The mayor uttered no protest, and the situation was explained to him by the military authorities.

CROWD GATHERED

The evening was one of excitement, started when the detail left the smelter works crossing and marched down Colorado avenue. Men gathered hastily on the streets and followed behind. Women and children joined the procession which moved forward in absolute silence, even the tramp of the infantrymen being muffled in the mud on the street. There was no jeering, no spoken word. The news of firing at the Telluride and the Standard mills, and by rights all the below the Telluride mill, had lashed over the city, fanning the reports of the rifles, which the echoes multiplied. The rumor was that the strikers had attacked one of the mills.

When the firing began, Colonel Verdenberg, in command at Camp Peabody, in the absence of General Chase, notified Colonel Brown who, with Sherman Bell, adjutant general-elect, was in Colorado Springs. The situation, which tended to verify the information at Camp Peabody that an attack on the mills had been planned, was explained over the telephone to Colonel Brown. He immediately asked that a detail of men report to him at the station at the roadway leading from the electric car line to the Standard mill, and that side arms for him and General Bell be sent with them.

"This cannot be permitted," he said, as he hung up the receiver. The news of the shooting became known in Colorado Springs and a party of mining and mill men hurried over to Colorado City. The two officers boarded a car and rode to the crossing.

Two pickets at the strikers' headquarters at that point, approached the officers, but were ordered back by the sentries. At 9:20, three minutes after the officers arrived, the detail in charge of Captain Bryan of Company K, First infantry, marched to the station, Captain Bryan reporting to Colonel Brown. After a whispered consultation, the men formed across the street car track and loaded their rifles, 30-30 caliber army Winchesters, holding six shots in the magazine and one in the chamber. "Fours right," was the order and in ranks of four the infantrymen marched down Colorado avenue, Colonel Brown and General Bell walking in front, immediately preceding Captain Bryan.

When the Reed building was reached, all curtains were drawn and the headquarters of millmen's union No. 125 presented a deserted appearance. The infantrymen formed in front of the sidewalk. The crowd lined up on the other side of the avenue, so quietly had the movement been executed that no one knew what it portended.

ENTERED BUILDING

Colonel Brown with Bell, Captain Bryan and four of the detail went up the stairs. At the top Captain Bryan, at an order from Colonel Brown, sent the infantrymen to the rear of the hall to find if there was a rear exit.

"If so," was the low spoken command, "guard it."

Bell rapped on the closed door of the executive committee room. A key scraped in the lock and the door was opened by one of the committee. Colonel Brown and General Bell entered.

Charles Burr was seated at the table where papers, pertaining to the strike and correspondence of the union and Western Federation of Miners were scattered in confusion. There were six men in the room, a small office, much of the space being occupied by a stove. Seated around, on chairs and tables, were President L. N. Edwards of the millmen's union, H. L. Sanger, Charles Lyon, J. H. Hill, F. M. Eden and W. P. Anthony of the executive committee of the union. The union officers were taken completely by surprise and remained seated.

Through the open door Mr. Burr caught a glimpse of the infantrymen and came to his feet with a bound. He was face to face with Colonel Brown, who had buckled on his belt and revolvers, the handle of one showing as the cavalry cape he was wearing fell back.

"Good evening, gentlemen," he said. "I am sorry to say there has been firing on our sentries on the hills back of the Standard mill, at the Telluride and at the Midland bridge. This firing is attributed to your pickets. I am here to serve notice on you that we will not stand for it."

"I understand nothing of the sort," returned Mr. Burr, who sank back into his chair.

"Well, you will understand me now," replied Colonel Brown, "and you will further understand what this picketing of yours means. We will give you a little taste of it."

"Where was the firing," asked Mr. Burr, quietly.

"At the Telluride mill, at the Midland bridge and at the Standard where a man back of our sentries almost shot one of our men in an attempt to run the line. I understand the shooting to have been done by some of your men, and I tell you again that you must cease this at once. We will not stand for it."

"IT'S A LIE"

"It's a lie, our pickets are not armed and if they are, they do it on their own responsibility," said Mr. Burr.

"It's a lie!"

"Don't you talk that way," thundered Colonel Brown. "You have fired on our

EXCITING CLASH BETWEEN STRIKERS AND THE GUARD

The strike has assumed a most critical phase. Firing on sentries and workmen at the Colorado City mills began early last evening. There were two narrow escapes, and entrance was effected by a striker in the lines at Camp Peabody. The windows of the pump house at the Telluride mill were riddled.

Parties of workmen going to and returning from work were accosted. Deputy Sheriff Yount has had up and questioned at the point of a gun. In personal encounters one man, Michael Riley, fared badly. Two arrests were made by the Colorado City authorities during the day. Shooting was maintained from the hills, at long range, surrounding the mills.

Early in the evening Colonel James H. Brown, after the first reports of the shooting, notified C. R. Burr, representative of the Western Federation of Miners and in charge of the strike at Colorado City, and the executive committee of the millmen's union, that they would be held responsible for any trouble that might ensue, and warned them to desist from firing. Mr. Burr refused to call in the pickets, the union had stationed around the mills.

A picket line of infantrymen surrounds the strike headquarters, the Reed block, on Colorado avenue. This is done, principally, to put a check on the operations of the strike leaders by making communication difficult between the men in charge and their lieutenants. All who enter or pass out are questioned.

Mayor Faulkner of Colorado City, assured Colonel Brown that the city authorities would co-operate with the military in preserving order. Mr. Burr denied that the pickets of the strikers were armed, but qualified the statement by saying if they carried arms it was under their own responsibility.

Today, it is anticipated, will be interesting in the light of developments. Governor Peabody was informed of all that occurred last night and of the arrests the military authorities contemplate making today. The firing came from the hills and men returning to Colorado City early this morning will be apprehended.

Cavalry patrols are guarding highways and were scouring the country before daylight this morning.

Sentries stationed around the three mills at Colorado City were fired upon last evening and at midnight. There were physical encounters between strikers and workmen going to and coming from the mills, and employes were guarded from their homes to the mills by details of infantry. Deputy sheriffs were held up at the points of guns and two narrow escapes from steel-jacketed bullets fired at close range, were reported, one a sentry at the other Deputy Sheriff Benton on guard at the Telluride mill.

From reports made by the sentries and the flashes from the guns, the men doing the shooting were located on the hills surrounding the reduction plants. Most of the shooting was done at long range.

No one was injured. The cavalry, under command of Captain H. D. Smith and Colonel James H. Brown and General Bell, patrolled the country in the vicinity of the three mills, but, because of the darkness and the rugged character of the country, did not succeed in locating the men doing the shooting. One of the strikers' pickets managed to penetrate the lines at the Standard plant while a companion and the sentry were exchanging shots. He has not yet been located, although a rigid search was instituted at once. Sentry lines were strengthened after the first shots and precautions taken to protect the mills, especially the Portland, from any rush or attack to gain possession.

The First Shot.

The quiet that has prevailed during the week the militia has been in Colorado City, was broken shortly after 7 o'clock last night by what appeared to be a simultaneous plan of intimidation. Shots were fired at sentries at the Telluride mill, at the Midland bridge, some distance from the mill and at the Standard.

A sentry patrolling the bluffs west of the Standard, near the water tank saw a man creeping toward him along the broken country leading to the railroad spur on which stood several cars of ore. To his command of "halt" the man paid no attention as he raised his rifle a shot rang out and as he too, fired he saw a flash some distance from the object at which he was aiming. The man who was in a crouching position straightened up and threw himself down the embankment into the camp, while, contenting himself with another shot, his companion disappeared. The sentry heard the bullet whistle near his head, and enter with a chug either the tank or the woodwork of one of the cars of ore.

Following this disturbance, other shots rang out. Pickets fired on a sentry at the Telluride and at the sentry at the Midland bridge.

More Shots.

At succeeding periods during the night other shots were fired from the hillside. Seven or eight shots were taken at the Portland. At 3 o'clock this morning everything was reported quiet at this mill and no one injured.

Information in the hands of the military authorities and the sheriff led to the guarding of men going off and on shifts at all the mills. Deputy Sheriff Yount, accompanied by a party of mill men who came off on the 11 o'clock shift on their way to their homes in the direction of Manitou. There are but few houses in this direction and the country is rugged in character. At a point on the road some distance from the Standard mill about 11:40 o'clock a command to halt met them. The workmen found themselves looking into the barrels of guns. The deputy sheriff was the only one in the party who carried a weapon but he had no chance to use it.

"Who are you?" asked the pickets.

"I am a deputy sheriff escorting these men home," was Yount's reply.

"Well, you just wait until we see what kind of paper you carry," replied the spokesman of the party. The pickets lit matches while a Winchester was placed against Yount's abdomen, and he was searched. The commission was found and examined and the deputy was allowed to proceed with the Standard workmen, the strikers surrounding them, making remarks and according to the statement of the men offering indignities in the shape of epithets and an occasional buffet.

Came to Blows.

At the Sixth-street crossing a fight occurred between men going on the 11 o'clock shift at the Standard guarded by deputy sheriffs, and pickets. A hand to hand conflict ensued in which lunch buckets were used and Michael Riley, one of the strikers was badly beaten up. Riley is an Irishman and it was reported at the sheriff's office that he was intoxicated. The non-union men and deputies cleared off victorious but the workmen came to work minus their lunch buckets.

A fight was reported north of Colorado avenue.

Five Shots Fired

Five shots were fired through the pump house at the Telluride mill. One went through the lighted window and came within a foot of Deputy Sheriff Bertolotti's head. The deputy was on guard and when the bullet came crashing through the window he saw a man armed at a distance of 40 feet.

"Who are you?" asked this man. "A deputy sheriff," replied Benton.

"Take this then," was the response as the man fired. He then ran off, opening behind a small hill. Although all lights at the Telluride were burning there was no more shooting.

One of the rifle balls was found. It was a steel-jacketed 30-B fired by smokeless powder. It was on the pump house that a week ago Saturday night 50 men marched and commanded the pumpman to go home and protect his family. The man has not returned to work. The pump house is an important part of the Telluride mill, as it offers the only safeguard against fire. In the present condition of the mill where extensive repairs are being made a fire could be easily started.

Protection Given

It was learned that warrants had been sworn out against three employes of the Standard mill, named Sanborn, McElroy and Brophy, on the charge of carrying concealed weapons and that when the men came from the mills they would be arrested. To prevent this the men were guarded to their homes.

At Camp Peabody, at 2 o'clock this morning the following statement was issued: "The troops have the situation under command, and this lawlessness will be stopped. Men who are detecting these acts of lawlessness will be held responsible."

SEVERAL ARRESTS MADE YESTERDAY

Authorities Take Prompt Action Regarding Carrying of Concealed Weapons—Brief Story of Yesterday's Routine at Camp Peabody.

Arrests were made in Colorado City yesterday and more it was announced last evening will follow today.

John Dye, a workman at the Portland, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Works at sixth and Main streets on the charge of carrying concealed weapons and was placed in jail. He was released on $100 bonds, furnished by John Rice, employed by the Standard and his hearing set for Thursday.

J. A. Hendrickson was arrested by the corporal of the guard at Camp Peabody and disarmed. The sentry saw a gun sticking from his overcoat pocket as he came in the lines. He explained that he had been given permission to carry a weapon as he had been threatened.

He was turned over to the justice of the peace at Colorado City and fined $10 for carrying concealed weapons.

Chief of Police Birdsall of Colorado City left yesterday for Denver. It is supposed he has gone on business connected with future events regard to the strike and will see the governor.

Twenty men from the Standard and another left Colorado City yesterday for Denver. It was said they had made a clean sweep at Colorado City, while in Denver they will be out from that extent. It was said that many men were left behind.

Charlie Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, passed through Colorado Springs on his way to Denver yesterday afternoon. After leaving his sleeping car he walked down to the city and would talk with no one of the conference.

EXPLOSION OF OIL CAUSES TERRIBLE DISASTER IN TOWN OF OLEAN, N. Y.

By Associated Press

Olean, N. Y., March 9.—More than a score of people were killed and a large number injured by an explosion of oil near here tonight.

A freight train on the Erie made up principally of tank cars filled with oil broke in two near this city about 9 o'clock. The two sections of the train came together with a crash and one of the oil tanks was demolished. Fire broke out almost instantly and the sky was lighted up for miles. A large crowd of people left this city for the scene of the fire. While they were lined up along the tracks a terrific explosion occurred. The flames communicated quickly with the other tank cars and a second and a third explosion followed each other in rapid succession. Sheets of flame shot out in all directions. Scores of persons were caught within the zone of the explosion and enveloped in flames. Men and boys ran screaming down the track with their clothing ablaze. Others fell when they stood, overcome by the awful heat. Just how many were killed is not known as many of the bodies were incinerated.

The number of dead is known to be at least 18, and some estimates place it as high as 25. More than two score were more or less seriously burned. Some of them will die. It is out of the question to identify any of the bodies recovered.

The following were treated at the hospital:

James McDonald, condition serious. Richard McDonald, condition serious. James McCready, legs and face badly burned. Walter Jackson, head, back and arms burned, inhaled flames, will die.

Sydney Fish, a prominent business man, returned from the scene of the fire at midnight. He said:

"I was attracted to the scene of the fire between 8:30 and 10 o'clock. When I was within a quarter of a mile of the wrecked train there was a terrible explosion. Flames shot outward and upward for a great distance. I saw several persons who started to run away drop on the railway tracks. They never moved again. Others who had been standing close to the wreckage were hurled through the air for hundreds of feet. The scene was awful. Half a dozen young boys ran down the tracks with their clothing on fire. They resembled human torches. I could hear their agonized screams distinctly from where I stood. They ran some distance down the track and then threw themselves to the ground, groveling in the ditches in their frantic efforts to extinguish the flames. Then they lay still, some of them unconscious, others dead. I do not know how many were killed, but I counted 20 bodies before I came away."

Word was sent at once to Olean and the headquarters. Every doctor and ambulance in the city was summoned. Grocery wagons and carriages of all kinds were pressed into service and everything possible was done to bring the injured without delay to the hospitals for treatment.

At midnight the dead and the injured arrived at the hospital. They were four boys. Their injuries are frightful. Great patches of flesh were burned off and hung in shreds from their bodies.

It will be difficult to ascertain the names of a great many of the dead tonight as their bodies were burned to ashes in the intense heat. A canvass is being made of the city as rapidly as possible to find out the name of those missing. There is great excitement in the city and the streets are thronged with people.

Large crowds gathered at the hospital and the faces of the injured were anxiously scanned as they were brought in on stretchers. Heart rending scenes were witnessed when one of the poor blistered bodies was recognized by a father or a mother or a sister or a brother, and it was with difficulty that persons were restrained from invading the operating room.

PRESIDENT [illegible] THREATENED AT MEMPHIS

By Associated Press

Memphis, Tenn., March 9.—The river at this point tonight marks 34.6 feet and rising. The weather bureau bulletin issued tonight states that the river at Cairo and Helena will continue to rise at an increased rate, and that a stage of 35 feet may be expected within 24 hours and 37 feet by March 14. It further states that the present rise will continue until a stage of 38 feet or more is reached at Memphis.

The greatest stage ever reached at Memphis was 37.3 feet, and it is thought that a greater stage must give much damage in the lowlands. What would occur from such a stage cannot be foretold.

The levees on both the east and west sides of the Mississippi are being strengthened at all weak points and at such places as will be subjected to the greatest pressure when the flood is at its height. Government boats are patrolling the river and men on foot are patrolling the embankments watching for suspicious or threatening developments of any character. There is little anticipation of serious trouble until the water approaches 37 feet.

Discouraging reports also have been received from Vicksburg at Natchez.

Noteworthy Painting Now on Exhibition at our Store.

We have for the a painting which deserves the attention of every person who is interested in art. It is the work of Mrs. M. Brunsh, wife of the late organist of St. Stephen's church. Where sad death is fresh in the minds of all; and is now offered for sale by her agents here. The subject is the Crucifixion, and the painter is, according to the best opinion, the old master Durer. While absolute authentication is lacking, yet local artists are one and all united in proclaiming the painting as typical of the master's best style. The picture shows the end. The darkness is lifting and light appears behind the cross. The figure of the Virgin on the left of the painting is an exquisite piece of work, surpassed only by the expression of the face. To the right of the picture is the figure of St John and at the base of the cross is the Magdalene. Each of these brought out in the master's "light" vein, but the serene sweet shown on the face of the Christ and the defied expression of the Central Figure are the striking features of the painting. In the background is Jerusalem, seen in the dissolving darkness, and the boldness of delineation, which is Durer's characteristic, is nowhere more evident than in this part of the work.

It bears date of 1530 A. D. That it is of that time all experts who have seen it admit.

There are many institutions in the city to which this painting would be a welcome gift, and it is hoped it will be retained here.

On display in our south window.

PIKE'S PEAK IN SILVER AND GOLD WILL BE SHOWN AT ST. LOUIS

'Pike's Peak in silver and gold' is the suggestion of Dr. David T Day, chief of the division of mineral resources, United States geological survey and honorary chief of the department of exhibitors of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, for the display to be made by the state of Colorado instead of a solid gold facsimile of the state house

Dr Day states that there would be nothing particularly striking in the architecture of the gold building project but that a facsimile of Pike's Peak showing the topography of the country, the location of the Cripple Creek district and the other cities around the peak, including of course, Colorado Springs, would be of great value. The snow clad portions could be in silver and the rest in gold. For this purpose only a small amount of gold and silver would be necessary and the exhibit would attract attention on account of its unique beauty.

In view of the fact that Pike's Peak is the most prominent and historic mountain in the state, the suggestion will undoubtedly receive full consideration at the hands of those having the matter in charge.

The history of Pike's Peak is largely the history of the state, and in the east when Colorado is spoken of the thought is nearly always linked with the thought of Pike's Peak.

"What the state needs," said Mr Day in Denver yesterday, "is a systematic prospecting by men who have money enough to take a supposed piece of barren ground and thoroughly explore it to a great depth The surface of the state has been hardly scratched and its mineral wealth will never be known till it is prospected by men who can afford to go deep into the bowels of the earth An exhibit of the Pike's Peak region such as suggested he says would attract the attention of wealthy men and induce them to invest in exploration companies

SPIKES AND YELLOW JOURNALS.

COLORADO, and especially this particular county, is just now having an opportunity of observing yellow journalism at its best, or worst, whichever it may be properly called.

Certain of the Denver papers have pursued a course with relation to the present labor difficulties at Colorado City which we believe will not commend itself to the good sense of the fair-minded citizens of the state, no matter what their individual opinions may be.

The mill and mine owners of this county are among its most substantial and respected citizens. They are well known and have labored earnestly and diligently for the upbuilding of the community and its industries.

It will require more than even the powerful influence of these same papers to convince the people where they are so well known that they are all nothing but the incarnation of wickedness and depravity.

The most unfortunate result of such a course of indiscriminate vilification is that it renders any adjustment more difficult and tends to embitter the feelings between employer and employe.

It is on these ex parte statements and representations that men are too quick to reach conclusions.

The great body of citizenship in this country at large, whether in labor unions or outside, believe in fair play. We venture the opinion that even now comparatively few of those who have taken a decided stand as to the justice or injustice of the respective positions of the mill and mine owners and the men in their employ have any clear idea of the true facts or could state with any degree of accuracy the true position assumed by either.

There are few if any employers of labor who take the ground that labor unions are an evil. Through their instrumentality the laboring man has greatly improved his position and has made the fight against tremendous odds.

But, like all other human institutions, they have human limitations and are liable to mistakes.

The real friends of the union are not those who support it without regard to whether it is right or wrong, but those who, after full knowledge, have the courage to criticise it if wrong, to commend it when right.

If unionism cannot tolerate friendly criticism its foundations are not so strong as we had always believed and still believe them to be.

EXTRAVAGANT EXPENDITURES.

THE indications are that the dominant party in congress will have to do a good deal of explaining before it can satisfy the people of the country that it was within the limit of economy and prudence in its recent appropriation bills. The expenditures were no less than $100,000,000 more than those of the previous congress.

Just why this increase should have been made is very difficult, if not impossible, to satisfactorily explain to the country at large. There was no war, no especially large number of warships, nothing to require unusual and extensive appropriations, and yet there stands the record.

If this increase had been due to low or economical appropriations in the previous congress, something might have been said on that score, but the previous congress had actually nearly a billion and a half dollars itself.

There is little, therefore, to be said in the way of excuse or apology. It appears simply to have been a case of an overflowing treasury and an overweening desire to spend everything in sight.

THE BEECHER MEMORIAL.

THE Beecher memorial meeting in Brooklyn on Sunday night was a notable occasion. It was attended by an immense throng, and addresses were made by distinguished publicists from all over the country. All united in paying tribute to the masterful and eloquent genius who for forty years preached in Plymouth pulpit.

The design for the memorial is a novel one, and yet it is probably just such a memorial as Beecher himself would have desired. It will probably take the form of a small public park upon the block where Plymouth church is now situated, and in this park will be a memorial building, containing relics and historical mementoes of the notable events that are past. If one may judge from the interest displayed in this matter, the Beecher memorial will be a notable success.

The town of Waterbury, Conn., which so recently suffered from the rule of the mob, is not yet through its trials. A police officer killed and two railway men badly injured was the record of Sunday night. The spirit of revenge which brings about acts of this sort is undoubtedly one of the most serious problems growing out of labor trouble. Unquestionably, whether a union is responsible for this state of affairs or not, it gets the blame for them, and for that reason it cannot be too careful or too urgent in recommending the adoption of peaceful and law abiding methods.

TOURIST SEASON BEGINS.

ALREADY the tourists are beginning to come to the Pike's Peak region. These earlier ones are, as usual, those returning from California, but they will come in larger numbers with every week until the latter part of June, when there will be more of them than the Pike's Peak region can readily handle.

A campaign of advertising by means of lectures, pamphlets, letters and so on is already under way, and will most certainly bear good fruit.

There is little doubt as to the coming of thousands of visitors to the Pike's Peak region this year. The thing now is to see that they are properly cared for when they come here.

They should receive fair and courteous treatment at hotels, restaurants and boarding houses. No one who has the good of the community at heart will be found overcharging, and where cases of extortion are known to have been practiced by any concerns within the control of the city or county, those concern should be promptly brought to account for their acts.

Probably the first important use to which wireless telegraphy is to be put is in connection with the business of Armour & Co. The various branches of this large concern in cities east and west are now connected by leased wire. Experiments are already under way connecting Chicago offices, and, if they prove successful, the system will be extended. It is expected in this way to save nearly $300,000 yearly. The scheme will be watched with interest for, if it does succeed, it will mean many more wireless plants throughout the country. It indicates that the big business concerns of the country are always on the outlook for something that will save them money, and the mere fact that the invention is new does not deter them from adopting it.

The news that a large reservoir is to be built for the purpose of irrigating large tracts of land in the Fountain valley is gratifying. There are many acres in this section of Colorado which need only irrigation in order to make them as fruitful as any in the state. These citizens do not intend to wait until the government takes hold of this irrigation enterprise, but are going ahead with it as a matter of private business. If water rights can be secured, it is an undoubted fact that the increased value of land under irrigation will pay a good profit upon an investment.

Congressman Hull of Iowa seems likely to meet his Waterloo, and there will be few tears shed. The control of the primaries in his district has been wrested from him by Judge Prouty, who was his opponent for the nomination last year. Hull's acts as a member of a Philippines Development company, while at the same time chairman of the military committee of the house, which has largely to do with matters in the Philippines, are not such as to commend themselves to voters who desire disinterested public service.

The United States senate attempted to dodge the issue made by the president in the nomination of Dr. Crum, a colored man, to be collector of customs at Charleston. That body failed to take action during the regular session, thinking possibly a way out of the difficulty might be opened up during the recess. But the president intends to put the senate on record one way or another, and has promptly sent in Dr. Crum's name again.

Judge Ben Lindsey of the county court in Denver is much in demand as a pulpit orator. For many Sunday evenings past he has been the principal speaker at one church or another in Denver. His subject is usually something in connection with the juvenile court, over which he presides. Undoubtedly Judge Lindsey's addresses are of quite as much value to the audience as the average sermon.

Minister Bowen says that the United States is the best place for young men. It is probably true, unless they can get the opportunity of becoming the representative of half a dozen of the largest nations of the world at one and the same time in a South American court.

The Colorado legislature was expected to visit the penitentiary at Canon City on Sunday. But it was apparently not the sort of a junket that commended itself to the law makers, for the warden's brass band which was sent to the station tooted its horns in vain.

A Georgia editor says that during Lent he has resolved to deny himself the pleasure of reading the Congressional Record. We fear that this is like a good many other penances indulged in at this particular season.

Mr. Addicks has been made a life trustee of Delaware university indicating that there is at least one position that he can run for and get. However, our commiseration goes to the university.

Barnard college has just received a gift of $1,000,000 with which to buy land. The donor desires that his or her name be kept secret. It is not often that a giver of a million is so modest.

The national house at its late session made at least one record. It had a legislative day that was 144 hours long, with little to be proud of at that.

ABOUT THE GAZETTE.

The first number of the Colorado Springs Gazette under the new management appeared on Sunday, March 1. The paper retains its former form, style and make-up and is edited with marked ability. Politically, it will be independent Democratic in the discussion of state and national matters.—(Ft. Collins Courier.

The new owners of the Colorado Springs Gazette are maintaining a bright sheet, and if the paper is run as outlined, should be a power for good.—(Durango Herald.

The Colorado Springs Gazette, since it changed hands, seems to be what it claims—a simon pure independent paper—and not the kind the Denver Times is—so independent that it lops away over to one side. The independent newspaper, when honestly edited, should be the most powerful paper in the land.—(Elbert County Banner.

SHORT STORIES

How It Was.

During an uncommonly hot week of a summer when Bishop Henry C. Potter resided on North Washington square he had as a guest a distinguished English churchman, a bishop and member of the house of lords. The visitor was afflicted with rheumatism and was unable to ascend the stairs from the dining room without considerable suffering. The residence was equipped with a hand-power freight and baggage elevator, large enough to accommodate one passenger, although not ordinarily used for that purpose. After noticing the evident pain caused by the stairway, it occurred to Bishop Potter that the freight elevator might be available as a more convenient means of ascent.

After dinner on one of the hottest days in summer the experiment was tried. The visiting bishop stepped carefully into the gloomy box. Two young men who had also dined well, and to whom post-prandial exertion was in the nature of a sore burden, were pressed into service to haul on the ropes. The distinguished and afflicted guest was of a portly habit and weighed more than the average of "stone."

The elevator was not built for great weights, and its lifting power depended almost exactly upon the main strength at the end of the ropes. With prodigious heaving and hauling the ascent was begun. The two flushed and panting young men looked at each other and had emphatic thoughts. As the faltered calves of the ecclesiastic were disappearing up the shaft, an inch at a time, a deep voice floated down to the volunteer crew:

"I say, does it run by water-power?"

And in a gasping duet, the reply ascended from below:

"Yes, my lord; by perspiration power."—(New York Mail and Express.

Stolen Thunder.

Senator Depew wanted to break into the senate debate to continue his speech on the statehood bill, but other senators were getting the floor, and it looked as if it would be some time before he would be successful.

Meanwhile his stomach began to inform him that it was time to lunch. He called a page to him and whispered in his ear. The page disappeared, and Depew walked into the marble room. A few minutes later the page reappeared with a tray loaded down with four big ham sandwiches. The senator kept one eye glued to an opening in one of the frosted-glass doors of the senate chamber, while his right hand made sundry excursions to the vicinity of the platter.

Had an opportunity occurred, the New Yorker would have left his lunch unfinished, broken through the door, and demanded recognition, but as it was he was left to conclude his little feast without having to interrupt his speech.

When he finally wiped his lips there was scarcely a crumb was left of the four sandwiches.

Later on, when Depew finally got the floor, he talked pretty much about everything except statehood. He spent some time in wandering along the banks of the Nile. Senator Tillman had been waiting anxiously to make a speech on the negro question, and on re-entering the chamber after a brief absence asked: "What's Depew talking on?"

"Africa," said Senator Spooner.

"Why," replied Tillman, "that's just what I want to speak on."—(Philadelphia Herald.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Yellow Journals and Labor Disputes.

If the industries of this state in which labor is extensively employed are not crippled this year and their product curtailed by disputes between laborers and their employers, it will not be the fault of the yellow journals.

These papers vie with one another in appealing to the prejudices and the passions of laboring men who think they have reason to be aggrieved, and the same papers do all in their power to bring into discredit the lawfully constituted authorities because of the precautions taken to prevent disorder. They present in an odious light all who do not join them in sowing the seeds of discord and dissatisfaction, and they are recklessly indifferent to the effect that a prolonged labor conflict may have upon the state at large as well as upon the men most directly interested and concerned.

Instead of fairly presenting both sides of any pending dispute, they picture the employers of labor as if they had no regard for the rights of their employes, oppressing them and striving to take advantage of their needs. They bring into disrepute both the law and the officials who have been chosen to execute it. Their sole aim is to gain favor by inciting men to strike and to go to any extreme to accomplish their objects, wholly without regard to the justice of the claims advanced or the effect upon the business and industrial welfare of the state.

In this, these yellow journals show that they are false guides, who would desert their followers in a moment if some other course offered greater profit and larger newspaper sales. They entirely fail to suggest, what beyond question is true, that men rarely gain enough by a prolonged strike to compensate them for the loss of time and wages involved in long continued idleness.

We are fully convinced, for our part, that far more is to be gained for labor by calmly considering the merits of an issue and seeking a settlement on conservative lines than by resorting to a prolonged strike in which the entire capital of the laborers, which is their time, would be sacrificed, never to be regained.

The miners in the anthracite coal regions continued their strike for something like six months, and at the last went back to work upon the old terms, pending a settlement by a commission appointed to consider the matter. Whatever they may gain in the judgment to be rendered, it will hardly compensate them for the long period of inactivity in which they earned nothing.

Men employed in the mines should consider that the ore that is produced by their labor is not a perishable commodity. A strike may put a mining company to inconvenience and delay the realization of looked-for profits, but after all it is only a delay. The ore lies unimpaired in the mine to be extracted sooner or later when the inevitable settlement of the labor dispute is reached. But the time of the men forced into idleness is lost to them forever. They cannot call back a single moment, and even if they should secure an increase of a few cents in the daily pay, it would require many days of hard work to make up by overpay this increase for lost wages that might have been earned.

In all labor disputes it is not alone the men who may be actively engaged in it who should be considered, but also the thousands of innocent people of all classes who, through disturbed business and the idleness of a large number of men are subjected to needless and unjust suffering.

By ignoring every consideration of this kind and by pandering to the inflamed passions of men whose grievances under such encouragement are magnified in their own eyes, these yellow journals encourage disorder and instill into men's minds disrespect for law and for the regularly constituted authorities. No country can prosper and no government can endure where this spirit of lawlessness and anarchy is rife. The yellow journals fan the flames that may at any moment get beyond control and cause destruction so widespread that the life of a generation will not suffice to repair the wrong.—(Denver Republican.

Vigorous Applause.

St. Louis enjoys the possession and use of a machine for making applause at its theaters. Handclapping is obsolete in our well-endowed neighbor's dramatic precincts. "The apparatus," says a contemporary, "in construction is not unlike a mammoth street piano. That is to say, its principal working part is a cylinder supplied with pegs which strike the sounding hammers at intervals. Instead of strings, however, the 'applause machine' has 'clappers,' 104 of them, each tuned to a different pitch and arranged to imitate all varieties of applause from the soft impact of kid glove against kid glove to the stamp of an enthusiastic man's No. 11 boot and the thump of a gold-headed cane in the balcony. When the handle is turned the response is not to 'the distinguished from that of a large and varied audience.' 'Ovation' now will be frequent and the 'hum of admiration and delight' will be all that the most exacting barnstormer could wish.—(Baltimore Sun.

The Boom Days in Colorado

The days of '77 to '79 were boom days in Colorado. During those years Leadville and Gunnison, Crested Butte and Ouray, Silverton and the various camps where the prospector wielded his pick, whatever the returns, boomed without the effort.

In those days the ranchman who was so fortunate as to escape the mining fever, and remained snugly at home on the little ranch, found a veritable mint of money making. Every bale of hay, every sack of oats, every pound of potatoes and vegetables turned easily and naturally into good, hard cash. The man who was so fortunate as to have a little truck patch, with a hay field near, all located on a highway of commerce between the "end of the track" and some prosperous mining camp was fortunate indeed. He got top prices for everything he would sell, the milk and butter produced on the little farm were snapped up at exorbitant prices and his wife made additional funds for the family by baking bread, cakes and pies for the hungry freighters, whose appetites were not of the particular kind, and who didn't demand so much fruit, sugar or shortening as to decrease the profits.

Ah, these were glorious days of prosperity and plenty, of open handedness and good will.

In times of shortage in the mining camps prices of bread stuffs went soaring on the slightest provocation. Today you think you are being robbed if you pay $1.50 for a bale of hay. The writer well remembers paying $18.70 for a single bale of hay. It was at the nine-mile ranch below Leadville, which many old timers will remember. A storm was coming on and no hay was to be had at the stables, when a freighter with a load of the precious bales drove up, having just come from the St. Louis valley. The top bale on the load was marked 187 on a wooden tag, and the freighter asked the modest sum of ten cents a pound, for the hay, which was shelled out as if it had been but a bagatelle. In fact to grumble would have done no good any way, so one might as well be a philosopher, even under protest.

Potatoes were also the thing in those days, and a little potato patch was a cash asset. This is well demonstrated by a little story.

Just when the boom was at its best and loudest, Jim Hazzard, familiarly called "Potato Hazzard" raised potatoes in a ten-acre patch about a half mile from the business center of Sacramento. As he was for years before, is now and will always be, Jim was addicted to a little game of "draw" occasionally, a habit which sometimes consumed an immense amount of potatoes in a single night. Just at digging time, when spuds were spuds, Jim walked into the store of Cuthoff and Mayer, and on going on back through the store, to the little bank in the rear, told the new cashier who he was and asked for a temporary loan of $1,000. The demand rather stumped the cashier, who told him to hunt up security. Just then, Mayer appeared on the scene. He knew Hazzard, and he told the cashier to let him have the $1,000. Jim got it and left. Then the cashier who knew something of Jim's habits, turned to Mayer and asked him how he came to let a man like that have such a sum without security.

"Well," said Mayer, "that man has ten acres potatoes, dat vill go tree hundred bushels to de acre, dats tree teusand bushels, vich is hundred eighty teusand pounds. At five cents de pound, vich is dirt cheep, dat vill be nine teusand dollars, vich is plenty securities." Jim paid the money all right, and had plenty left to winter through on too. He lives down in the Montezuma valley now, and it will probably be a long day before he will see five cent potatoes by the ten acre field full, again. Those early days were great ones.—(Montrose Press.

More seem this, since none but good and worthy literature should be admitted to a public library, the readers cannot live its literature without forming, by living and elevating their taste. [illegible] taste in literature [illegible] naturally believed by many, to correspondingly [illegible] the [illegible] and their opposites. For my own part, I regard the librarian of the free library as a guardian of [illegible] receive books of him receive the continual admonitions of the wisest and best of men. A course of Shakespeare is in itself an education; a course of Scott may be said to teach history; and a course of the best fiction in our language teaches what is meant by the grand old name of gentleman. I look for the time when the demand for books by the mass of the public will be in itself a selection of the best and finest; when it will be impossible to reproach the people, as is done today, with buying the ephemeral trash that is offered at a penny, and neglecting the scholars and poets and the wise ones of ancient days. The free library is doing for the working people what the circulating library cannot do for its readers who go in broadcloth and in silk. In the time to come in the immediate future, it will, perhaps, be the latter who read the rubbish and the former who will create the demand for the nobler and the higher work.

The Legislative Hierarchy

In the house of representatives three men—the speaker, Mr. Dalzell and General Grosvenor—with a shifting fourth, constitute the legislative body. The house committees grind our grist for the mill of the hierarchy. No bill or resolution can come before the house except with the consent of these three and the shifting fourth, says Henry L. Nelson in a letter from Washington to the Boston Herald.

This shifting fourth is the chairman of the committee having jurisdiction of the subject of the bill to which the hierarchy has given the right of way. So far, there is nothing in the system hostile to the kind of discussion and deliberation which was once the characteristic of parliamentary law. The hierarchy were members of the majority, duly appointed to perform the function which it actually exercises, and generally recognized as the channel through which the majority's determination as to legislation will be formulated and uttered, we should have, in a serious sense, no complaint. It is a serious step forward that responsibility for government which is now so conspicuously lacking in some quarters.

However, the hierarchy does not stop with the formulation of the majority's decisions in a rule governing its consideration and the rule is an instrument of pure tyranny. It ought to be made a matter of both honor and the assumption is invariably that the body is not a body of gentlemen, and the possession of gentlemanly instincts and gentlemanly habits and traditions is not to be taken for granted. The hierarchy assumes that neither the minority nor the majority will do its duty to the country, but that each will do every itself to efforts to secure its own advantage. Therefore, the rule is imposed for debate which [illegible] the amendments that will be tried and [illegible] attempts to impose [illegible] Therefore, the rule is [illegible] that no speech of [illegible] can be made. Any member knows the character of the amendments which are voted in the senate to appropriation bills, and knows that the vote is not only in support of extravagance, but of jobs and graft.

Not only is the individual member of the house without influence on legislation, but even the hierarchy is without decisive influence. It is a mere tribunal, a much more powerful body of men than Mr. Speaker, who are the real members [illegible] making but of the government itself. No legislation [illegible] the house without the consent of a number of members who are not in Mr. Speaker's [illegible] These members are largely Mr. Aldrich, Mr. Allison, Mr. Hanna, Mr. Fairbanks, Mr. [illegible] Mr. Lodge [illegible] two others. Mr. Spooner is in the group, but he is [illegible] by his connection with the Philippine bill. He can return to [illegible] membership, however, whenever he [illegible] desired. SCHE W R A W E ER WERE A RA WA EN ER NAVY

"Say, Mister, w at do 'prentices git?"

"What do we get our clothes?"

"Can you tell me, mister, what was the w ther with me?"

The above and many other similar queries were put to the naval officers at the recruiting station yesterday when the first batch of applicants had been passed upon. Boys, ranging all the way from street gamin to high school student were present when the recruiting station opened for business in the El Paso bank building yesterday morning. It is that day in this city was indeed a most successful one and very surprising, according to one of the officers.

Between 9 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the afternoon 40 applicants put in an appearance, 38 of whom were examined, 20 passed and eight sworn into the service of Uncle Sam. "The results of the day's work were indeed surprising to us," said an officer connected with the station. "If we continue at this rate for a day or two more we will take a big bunch of men with us from Colorado Springs."

Of the boys who passed to examinations, a number forgot to bring along the written consent of parent or guardian and on this account only a small proportion of them was sworn in yesterday.

The looks of those who failed to pass were indeed disappointing and the officers put in much time telling the boys not to feel bad about it. The physical examination is very thorough and a very slight ailment is enough to disqualify an applicant. All successful applicants will be sworn in as they fulfill the requirements as to recommendations and written consent from parents and will be ordered to report Saturday afternoon for further instructions. The recruits will leave this city for San Francisco Sunday where a full equipment of clothes will be alloted them. Naval apprentices will be sent to school and in three months will be placed on some training ship. At the end of six months' service they will be given a furlough of several weeks, and then will be placed on board a man o' war. The landsmen and other recruits will be sent to different stations and some will be placed immediately on board ship.

The applicants sworn in yesterday were: Arthur H. Smith, landsmen for training; Samuel L. Abeb, electrician of the third class; William H. Hawkins, landsman for training; Percy F. Warren, landsman for training; Elba Mundhenk, coal passer; Edgar W. Gelino, landsman for training; Fred Hauver, coal passer, and Rush Hoag, naval apprentice. Rush Hoag is the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hoag of 118 Del Norte street. He is the young man who as a pupil of the Seventh grade of the Garfield school, won third prize in the essay writing contest instituted by the Junior Order of United American Mechanics. He will serve until he is 21.

The Popular Secretary of a Lodge in Greenwood, Ind., Tells of His Cure by

Paine's Celery Compound

Earth's Best Spring Medicine

Spring showers, warm and glowing sunshine and bright skies cannot contribute to the pleasure and enjoyment of the sick and diseased to any extent. Pain, anxiety, gloomy fears and the thought of death all combine at the present time to make the lives of such dark and miserable.

Are you debilitated, nervous, sleepless, dyspeptic, rheumatic or tormented with neuralgia? Have you deadly kidney disease? Is your liver torpid and diseased? If so, Paine's Celery Compound will raise you from the fearful pit of danger. It saved the life of Mr. J. D. Leisure, of Greenwood, Ind., after the utter failures of medical specialists. You, dear sufferer, can command the use of the same Heaven-blessed medicine for your weakness and illness. It will give you what you seek for—health and new happiness. Mr. Leisure, Secretary of Greenwood Lodge No. 436, Mystic Workers of the World, says:

"I used Paine's Celery Compound for general debility, run down nervous system and an aggravated case of indigestion. I had spent over $200 with physicians, some of them specialists, but only obtained temporary relief. I also tried all patent medicines of any note which were recommended for cases such as mine, but with no better results than that obtained from treatment of physicians. The last medicine I tried was Paine's Celery Compound, which gave me relief from the very start. I have taken nearly six bottles, and am happy to say am now enjoying the best of health. I can eat anything, sleep well, feel well, and am gaining in weight every day. To Paine's Celery Compound I owe my present good health."

THE GREEN ... NA ...

The announcement of the sudden death of John Sullivan Luckraft, which occurred late Sunday night at the residence on Cascade avenue, came as a great shock to his very large circle of friends and acquaintances in this city, the Cripple Creek district, and many other parts of Colorado where he was so thoroughly well known. Although the end came so suddenly it was not entirely unexpected by his relatives and closest friends, who had been advised of his precarious physical condition.

Mr. Luckraft had a residence of 20 years' duration in Colorado and previous to that was lieutenant in the English navy during the reign of Queen Victoria. Later, however, he took up the profession of mining and civil engineering and has always been recognized as one of the foremost in that branch in Colorado. He has been closely and prominently identified with the history of the Cripple Creek Mining district and in the earliest days of the camp was there in the interests of Count Pourtales and others, who secured the Buena Vista claim and other properties which formed the nucleus of the Isabella company. Mr. Luckraft was also engineer for a number of other prominent mining companies in Cripple Creek, where he was highly esteemed for his sterling integrity and moral worth. A wife and young daughter are left to mourn his loss. It is understood that Mrs. Luckraft will in the near future take up her residence in England, with her mother, Mrs. Allen, formerly a large property holder in this city. The funeral services will be conducted at Grace church this morning at 10 o'clock and the request is made that no flowers be sent.

YOUNG ENGINEERS — Yesterday four young men, who are students in the newly organized engineering department of Colorado college, appeared on the campus, wearing black caps with the letter "E" on them. The inauguration of the new department promises to arouse much class spirit among the students of that department.

... Building Company ... Organized ...

The National Bank Building company of Colorado City held its first formal meeting yesterday for the purpose of completing its organization and arranging for the construction of the new building. By-laws were adopted and officers were chosen as follows: Edgar T. Ensign, president; Willis R. Armstrong, vice president; R. Ernest Johnson, secretary and Earl C. Hensley, treasurer. A building committee was appointed consisting of C. M. Sherman, Edgar T. Ensign, R. E. Johnson, the committee being given full power to act and instructed to push the work of erection with all possible speed.

The proposed new building will provide quarters for the First National bank, the postoffice, C. M. Sherman's store and another store which has not been rented, besides office rooms and a hotel. The property to be improved consists of six lots in a body with a frontage on Colorado avenue of 90 feet, on Lincoln of 90 feet, and on Court of 224 feet. There are at present two frame cottages facing on Lincoln which will be placed in thorough repair to be utilized as annexes to the hotel or rented to tenants as occasion may require.

The new building is to be two stories in height with walls built solidly so that an addition of one or two stories may be made. The front will be 90 feet on Colorado avenue and 120 feet deep, running back to the alley on Court street. The material to be used is to be stone and brick of local manufacture, and the best quality of structural iron. Special precautions will be taken for fire protection. The steam heating plant will be placed in a building separate from the main structure.

Thomas MacLaren and George M. Bryson are the supervising architects.

... Ground Broken Yesterday

Ground was broken yesterday afternoon for the new dormitory for young women at Colorado college. The exercises were in charge of the girls of the senior class, Miss Fannie Borst, vice president of the class, giving the address, after which every girl took a hand in breaking the ground.

Contracts for the erection of the building have not been awarded as yet, although the work of excavating will proceed as rapidly as possible. Stakes were driven Saturday and all preliminary arrangements have been made to rush the erection of the building, which will be three stories in height and contain 60 rooms.

It is proposed to have the building completed as soon as the lease on the South hall expires. South hall is at present occupied by the girls, and it is desired that all changes be made to the new quarters before the expiration of the lease, thus doing away with much inconvenience that would be caused by removing to various places and then again changing to the new domitory.

... Stone to Appear ... Here

The people of Colorado Springs will have the privilege of seeing and listening to Miss Helen M. Stone on the night of March 24 in the Temple theater. She lectures in Kansas City and Denver prior to her engagement in this city, and from here she goes to Salt Lake City.

Miss Stone is a woman of international reputation, having been captured by the United States government from the brigands of Bulgaria, who undoubtedly abducted her with the expectation of receiving a reward.

Much has been written of the adventures of Miss Stone and her companion, several magazines having made special features of it, going to heavy expense to secure photographs and illustrations of the wild country which she was obliged to pass. The descriptions of the country given by Miss Stone and her treatment by the brigands will be exceedingly interesting, coming from her own lips, and the Temple theater will probably be well filled the night of her appearance here.

The manager, Grant Pauley, is fortunate in being able to secure Miss Stone for even a single evening, as she is only delivering her lecture in the large cities of the country.

CHAPMAN RETURNS FROM ABSENCE IN SOUTH AMERICA

James E. Chapman, a former student at Colorado college, and at one time engaged in newspaper work in this city, returned yesterday after an absence of three years, during which time he has taken a course in mining and metallurgical science in New York, and spent several months in South America, where he was superintendent of a cyanide mill in Ecuador. Mr. Chapman states that there are only 20 Americans in the section where he has been located, these being employed as the heads of departments in the mill.

Mr. Chapman will remain in Colorado Springs about two weeks. He is stopping at the Plaza hotel.

After encountering snow storms daily and dodging snowslides in the San Juan country for the past two weeks, E. H. Carrington, manager of the Colorado College Glee and Mandolin clubs, returned to this city yesterday with a completed itinerary for the spring tour of the clubs.

Mr. Carrington states that owing to the heavy fall of snow and the difficulty in getting around the towns in the western part of the state the trip was a trip through country where snowslides were of frequent occurrence and the only thing that detained momentarily was an experience in which he is tied he passed through, now it is all over and he is still alive, from the standpoint of the clubs the trip was a big success, says Mr. Carrington and he anticipates the most successful tour the clubs have ever taken. Concerts have been arranged in Pueblo, Florence, Canon City, Salida, Grand Junction, Montrose, Ouray, Telluride, Durango and Silverton. The tour will start April 6 and the towns named will be taken on consecutive days from that date on, the last concert being in Silverton, April 16. Easter Sunday will be spent in Montrose, where the clubs have established their popularity to an extent almost equal to that in this city. The glee club will sing in the Congregational church in Montrose Easter Sunday.

"I was very much pleased to find that the impression made by our clubs in this territory three years ago is still lasting," he said; "in fact in several towns I was told that our clubs were the only clubs they would have this season. Such news is naturally gratifying to me as a member of the glee club of three years ago and as an alumnus of the college whose reputation we endeavor to uphold. I am not afraid of the impression the clubs will make this year, musically, socially or in any other way and I am sure that we will receive invitations to return next year in every town that we visit.

"I am sure Colorado Springs has no reason to complain about the snow here this winter," said Mr. Carrington when asked about the weather over west. "During the two weeks that I was out I failed to encounter a snow storm only on one day, while the snow on the ground in each town was so heavy as to make walking extremely difficult. Snow plows preceded all trains in the San Juan country and on Friday the D. & R. G. train into Durango was delayed 13 hours by the drifting of snow on the Conejos range. I left Durango Sunday morning and, with the assistance of the snow plow we were able to get through almost on schedule time but had not the plow been ahead of us we would have been stalled before we reached Cumbres at the summit of the pass. The D. & R. G. keeps the plows running constantly and sends out a gang of shovelers with each train, thus doing everything possible to keep the tracks clear but the snow falls so heavily and drifts so much that sometimes it is utterly impossible to cope with it."

ELKTON DOING WELL

An Average of 900 Tons per Month is Being Sent Out—Best Showing is on the Seventh Level—Lessees Making Good Progress in Sinking on the Little Bessie.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, March 9.—The Elkton company is keeping up its production of late in good shape and with what the lessees are shipping goes a long way toward making the expenses of the great property. From the various workings of the company the total production averages close to 900 tons of ore each month, of that amount the company is shipping fully 400 tons that will average about $20 to the ton. The best showing in the company's workings is on the seventh level, a raise being made from that level up to the sixth reveals the ore body varying from three to five feet in width. The work of extending the main seventh level north of the shaft is now being pushed with all possible speed, and drifting is also in progress in the Walter vein, which is yielding considerable ore as work progresses, while the ore in the north level is of a lower grade than that being broken south of the shaft. At the present time there are about 10 sets of lessees operating on the various parts of the company's estate, and it is believed every one of them is shipping.

Wyncoop and others, operating a lease on the south end of the Little Bessie, are making good headway as the shaft has now reached a little over the 200-foot point, but it is the intention of the lessees to keep up sinking as rapidly as possible until they reach the 400-foot point, when a large station will be cut. No lateral work to amount to anything is being performed while sinking is in progress, unless of course, if the lessees should run on something of an ore body that would warrant working. In that event, prospecting would be performed.

The Lincoln property near Gillett is now pushing development work on the 200-foot level. The workmen are drifting and raising on two distinct veins, in search of an ore shoot and every indication points to soon finding it. In the Great Western shaft in this same locality a streak of ore assaying $30 per ton has been cut at a depth of 50 feet, and the streak increases in width as depth is gained.

C. J. Moore has secured a lease on the Little Mary property on Battle mountain, which adjoins the Carbonate Queen property. The lessee will develop this ground from the 350-foot level of the Sunset-Eclipse shaft, and it is believed will encounter a good ore shoot recently opened on the Carbonate Queen property.

Leonard and others who are operating the Doctor vein, through the Morning Glory shaft on Raven hill at a depth of 1,000 feet, are keeping up a steady production of high grade ore from this property. The latter part of the week they sent out 75 tons of five-ounce ore.

EL PASO STOCKHOLDERS HEAR ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the El Paso Consolidated company was held yesterday afternoon at the offices of the company in this city. There were represented at the meeting 751,000 shares in person and 1,089,000 by proxy, all of which was voted in favor of the following board of directors: W. S. Jackson, Judge J. C. Helm of Denver, S. S. Bernard, George Bernard, P. S. Delany, J. W. Mahoney and J. M. Jordan. Messrs. Jackson and Helm were elected in place of Dr. J. W. Graham and H. H. Barbee; the remainder of the board being the same as last year.

The reports of the officers were received and the secretary was directed to see that each stockholder receive a copy.

After the meeting of the stockholders the newly-elected board of directors immediately convened and chose S. S. Bernard, president; George Bernard, vice president and J. M. Jordan, secretary and treasurer. The directors also appointed a committee to audit the books of the company and report at a later meeting.

Several matters of importance to the company were discussed in an informal manner, especially the enterprise of running the new drainage tunnel. The officers stated that they expected the tunnel would reach El Paso ground in the course of the next six months and perhaps sooner, when the El Paso would probably begin the payment of dividends.

The attention of the stockholders was called to the fact that but little ore had been shipped from any of the lower levels, the principal production coming from above the 335-foot point.

Following is the summary of thee reports of the treasurer and president of the company:

Treasurer's Report.

The report of the treasurer, J. M. Jordan, showed that the cash on hand, February 10, 1903, was $27,116.10. The year's ore sales were $470,755.75, transfer fees, power, rental, etc., $955.85. Sale of 25,000 shares treasury stock, $17,205; profits on sale of Morning Star stock, $3,851.60. The construction expense was $114,027.04; maintenance, repairs, etc., $13,27 .90; mining expenses, $153,403.64; shipping and selling, $195,940.10; general expenses, $15,882.91; sundry accounts (not operating) $78,985.36. In the latter account the sum of $20,594.68 paid to lessees on their share of ore shipped, $50,000 for purchase of mining property, the Morning Star and Fleming claims, and $5,474.03 on drainage tunnel.

The cash on hand February 9, 1903, was $38,542.35. Of the production of $470,755.75 there were 7,818.59 tons shipped by the company that averaged $54.55 per ton, and the remaining 1,820.55 tons were produced by lessees, giving an average value of $26.36 a ton.

The approximate cost of the new working shaft was $26,000. Had the cost of the same been kept separately, as it should have been, it would have appeared under the heading of construction expense whereas it is now charged in different accounts.

President's Report.

President S. S. Bernard submitted his report which, in part, is as follows:

Early in the year it became apparent that the Morning Star claim would be a valuable acquisition to the holding of your company, lying as it does immediately north of and adjoining the Columbia No. 1 and Australia claims, and accordingly the management set about purchasing the stock, representing it, later obtaining an option on the entire holdings of the company, which, in addition to the above included the "Fleming," a non-producing claim on Bull hill, which option was taken up on December 15, 1902, the purchase price being $50,000. The treasurer reports a profit made for the company on what stock was purchased in this deal of $3,851.60, which on being deducted from the purchase price reduces it to $46,148.40, this adds close to 800 feet along our main veins, giving a total of about 3,000 feet of undisputed rights covering one of the best known systems of dikes and veins in the district.

First in this connection I desire to call attention to the commodious three-compartment working shaft recently completed at an approximate cost of $26,000, through which the chief operations of the company are now being conducted; its size and position being such that probably nothing further in this line will ever be needed. I desire to call attention to the foot note of the treasurer referring thereto.

Around and about this shaft are placed in the most advantageous positions the buildings necessary to the successful operation of the mine; they consist of the following: An ore house, "the model of the camp," size 80x84 feet, three stories high, with a capacity of 2,000 tons of ore and will accommodate 32 ore sorters; is equipped with two automatic apparatus for washing the slimes from the rock. The handling of all ore after entering this building is absolutely automatic.

Development Work.

As the report of the superintendent treats almost exclusively on this item, will give it but little attention; suffice it to say that the results from this class of work have been highly satisfactory and although a total of 4,512 linear feet, including the new shaft, was accomplished, nothing outside of conservative lines was attempted owing to the attention necessary to the construction of the new plant.

The results of development during the year just closed have surpassed even the hopes of the management inasmuch as there is today more ore in sight above the second or tunnel level than at any previous time in the history of the mine; there are at this time no less than five separate and distinct ore shoots above this point, when at this time a year ago there were two, and all of which are now producing a good grade of ore.

Since my report a year ago, what is commonly called the C. K. & N. vein has been opened and developed extensively on the second or tunnel level with the most gratifying results; the ore shoots encountered being very exceptional both in size and values.

This vein has been opened in the 600-foot level, but explored for only a few feet on account of the presence of an excessive flow of water, but the showing at this point has never been excelled in Cripple Creek.

In the 400-foot level some 30 feet of development was done on the same vein, showing a medium grade of ore (but at a point immediately under where in the vein above showed no values), when a heavy water flow caused us to suspend work at this point; chiefly because the handling of this water being expensive, it has been decided to place a bulkhead at this point as well as at the inflow on the 600-foot level until after the completion of the drainage tunnel, of which I shall treat in this report.

In the last 10 feet of drifting on this vein on the 400-foot level a phonolite dike, running at opposite angles to said vein, was encountered, showing a good grade of ore; this dike is something entirely new to the property, never having before been encountered and bids fair to add materially to the value of the mine.

I desire to call your attention to another important development which occurs in what we call the "Little May dike." This dike runs lengthwise of the Little May and Australia claims and shows a uniform width of about 30 feet at each point so far encountered, and also shows a high state of mineralization; but little prospecting has been done here and has not been opened below the tunnel level; at each successive level downward it shows marked increase in values, and it is only a matter of depth until it will be transformed into an immense body of shipping ore; the result of such an occurrence is at once apparent, and the pessimist tells you that values decrease with depth in this camp, and am willing to stake my reputation that the contrary is true.

Referring to the drainage tunnel, President Bernard states that his company voted $25,000 toward the construction expenses and that the amount will be saved in less than a year on pumping account, besides the saving which will be effected between the cost of wet and dry mining.

In addition he states the first 700 feet of the tunnel beyond the main shaft will pass through virgin territory of the El Paso estate, doing exploratory work, which the company would have done independently if there had been no tunnel. The treasurer's report shows that $5,000 of the subscription has been paid already. The report closes with the following:

As previously stated, the management has decided to shut off the water encountered in the C. K. & N. vein on the 400-foot and 600-foot levels, by means of bulkheads until after the completion of the drainage tunnel, thereby eliminating the expense of pumping, together with the excessive costs attendant upon mining where the water flow is heavy.

EL PASO COUNTY COAL DEPOSITS DEEP INDEMENTS TO CAPITAL

William Weston, the mining engineer, returned last week from a three-weeks' visit to the coal fields of Routt county, where he went in the interests of eastern capitalists, for the purpose of thoroughly investigating the coal measures of the southern portion of the county. Mr. Weston describes the coal fields as occupying an elliptical basin containing a territory of 900 square miles. The basin is known as the Yampa coal fields, beginning at Yampa and extending westward as far as Lay, Yampa being 45 miles from Wolcott on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, which at the present time is the nearest railroad station.

According to various reports made by competent authorities there are in this basin three varieties of coal, known as bituminous, semi-bituminous and anthracite, and the different veins are as yet unnumbered. Only a small amount of development has been done on any of the coal deposits, but the coal has been mined for commercial purposes.

The coal fields have been reported upon by Prof. R. C. Hills, in 1892; Prof. Arthur Lakes in 1895, and Eugene Hilter, M. E., of the School of Mines, Pa. in last summer, the latest professional report being as yet unpublished by Mr. Weston. All these experts agree on the superior quality of the coal and the probable extent of the fields. In order to thoroughly test the value of the coal Mr. Weston selected with his own hands 15 samples of 50 pounds each which he took from various veins which had been opened up. These samples were brought to Denver to be tested and analyzed by careful assayers. The analysis proved that in most cases the coal is superior to the average quality found in this state, the average of ash being only about four per cent with six per cent moisture, while there was 58 per cent of fixed carbon and 32 per cent of volatile matter in the Routt county samples. The veins, according to Mr. Weston, average about eight feet of clean coal free from slate, or what is known to miners as bone, while there are veins that are 15 feet in thickness.

On account of the snow, which is about three or four feet deep, Mr. Weston was unable to reach the most valuable deposits of coal in the vicinity of Elk mountain, northwest of Steamboat Springs, there being in this vicinity the only known deposits of anthracite in the Rocky Mountain region outside the Gray district in the Gunnison country. These deposits aggregate only about 15,000 acres, the quality of the coal according to analysis, being better than the anthracite of the eastern fields.

It is Mr. Weston's intention to again inspect the entire Routt county fields as soon as the snow goes off, which will probably be about May 1, and to devote several months in looking over the ground.

Great interest is attached to the investigations on account of the new Moffat railroad which is now in process of building and which will reach these inexhaustible coal fields in the course of the next two years. The railroad interests give assurance that the development of the resources of Routt county will be left to individuals and that everything will be done to encourage the settlement of the country and to forward its development.

Patented land is let out land to the bituminous coal region at from $15 to $20 per acre, according to the location, and the limited sections are estimated at much higher figures.

In comparison with the tests of samples Mr. Weston states that but little could be seen except the veins exposed by erosion and those opened by residents and that 488 specimens came practically from grass roots, the longest tunnel running not more than 150 feet into the deposit.

LEASE GRANTED ON FAIR CHANCE CLAIM

The Mollie Gold Mining company yesterday took a three years lease on the Fair Chance claim, adjoining the Colorado Boss and other producers, to H. A. Mills on graded royalties. The main shaft is down 250 feet and it is probable that Mr. Mills will explore the ground from this working and possibly sink it to a greater depth. The Fair Chance has been idle for a long period to such that extensive work can be done in the showing in little.

COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

The mining stock market was dull and featureless with lower prices prevailing. There appeared to be but little demand for stocks of any description, the prevailing sentiment being that prices would not advance until after the settlement of the strike or until it should be known whether or not the Cripple Creek miners would take any action in sympathy with the mill workers.

Acacia sold at unchanged prices, sales being made at 8¾ but C. K. & N. was weaker, being offered at 15¾.

Baby Mine

Every mother feels a great dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger incident to the ordeal make its anticipation one of misery. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves most of the great pain and danger of maternity, this hour which is dreaded as woman's hour of trial, not only made painless, but all the danger is avoided by its use. Those who use the remedy are no longer incapacitated or given up to weakness, nausea and other distressing conditions are avoided, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the ordeal is robbed of its terrors, so common to the critical hour when relief is obtained by the use of Mother's Friend. "It is worth its weight in gold," many mothers have said to the writer of their experience. "Book containing valuable information of interest to all women, will be mailed free upon application to BRADFIELD REG. CO., Atlanta, Ga.

EASTERN MARKETS

STOCK LETTER.

Report of J. Bache & Co. to Otis & Hough.

New York, March 5.—While market was feverish and unsettled up to noon there were evidences of some powerful interests behind the support and that the short interest had extended its lines to somewhat of a dangerous point. This appeared later in Southern Pacific which advanced at first on what appeared to be short covering and later on long transactions. Other issues followed advance. There were rumors that the Union Pacific controlling interests had taken over the pool holdings of Southern Pacific. We do not take any stock in a fight having existed and we believe that the recent urgent liquidation in both stocks was forced upon the pool by general money condition. Market closed strong and indications point to rally extending further.

McIntyre & Marshall—There was a great deal of nervousness over the financial situation from Saturday's bad bank statement and the failure of the commercial house which was then reported and on visions of the rather wholesale calling of loans by banks during the day and much dearer money rates, the market opened weak with prices showing general declines of 1 to 1½ per cent. Supporting orders in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific from the large banking interests connected with the property and good buying on the scale down in other stocks induced extensive covering of shorts and the market was rallying under this at midday when the report came that some agreement had been reached between outside Southern Pacific bull pool and the Harriman and Union Pacific pool from it there developed a general buying movement. There was renewed good selling on the bulge. It seemed as though covering of shorts together with manipulation by some of the banking interests and the leading outside operator were the potent influences in closing market up so well. If anything the present money conditions are tighter than they have been at any time since last December and with the sub-treasury taking about a million dollars in cash from the banks since Friday night their surplus over the 25 per cent reserve is practically wiped out. Until these conditions are improved we can see little encouragement to buy stocks. (Quotations furnished by Otis & Hough.)

GRAIN LETTER.

Report of Logan & Bryan (by Private Wire), to Otis & Hough.

Chicago, March 9.—Wheat—Liverpool ⅝ to ¾ lower. Paris ¼ to 1 higher. Visible supply decreased 1,050,000 bushels and is now 46,757,000 bushels against 53,155,000 a year ago. Broomhall cabled undertone English market heavy, due in part to pressure of wheat cargoes off coast. There was some inquiry for cash wheat here, a sale of 85,000 bushels being reported, and 28 boatloads taken at the seaboard. The usual Monday statistics were not obtainable. Market after showing some strength early sold off sharply to 73⅞ but regained half of the loss during the last 15 minutes of the session. Because of low temperature in extreme northwest there was general covering in July wheat early, which narrowed the spread between that option and May. Crop news continues of a favorable character and the forecast indicates no severe weather for the west or southwest. Receipts are larger than last year and the cash situation is a slow one. The closing strength is due largely to the strength in corn market. Sentiment is almost unanimously bearish and the market is likely to become over-sold from time to time as a result. If we wanted to buy wheat believe would take up the July on the break. Estimated cars, 30.

Corn—Liverpool ½ lower. Market was strong on bullish mood of the local crowd and small offerings of May. The weather was more favorable but the large clearances were a help to the market. There was enough commission house demand for May to advance it over half above Saturday's close. The early strength was lost later, due largely to a selling raid by local traders and in sympathy with the weakness in wheat, but most of it was recovered during the latter part of the session. Strong local interests appeared to absorb all the May there was for sale around 47 cents. There was continued selling of July by a leading local operator and the discount widened to nearly three cents. Shipping demand was poor and there were further reports of the east trying to resell corn. The May position looks strong to us and would stick to the buying side on breaks. Estimated cars, 400.

Oats—Market has followed corn closely; trifled nearly early but did not hold at all. There was not much trade either way. Cash market was lower and the local stocks increased 23,000 bushels. Country offerings moderate and a fair cash demand reported. Estimated cars, 215.

Provisions—It looks as though stock yards crowd which took profits last week have been re-instating their lines today. It has been an irregular market but with prices most of the day firm, and at one time higher for the whole list. There was a heavy selling of May led by brokers said to be for the account of a leading local packer who is about to go north. Hogs at principal western points 25,000 below last year and exports better than for the corresponding period in 1902.

Denver Live Stock.

Denver, March 8.—Cattle—The receipts were fairly liberal, but a large per cent of the fresh arrivals were contract stock cows that were bought in the country. The market was late in getting started this morning and it was nearly noon before active trading commenced. The quality of the cattle on the market was fair to good and the market opened up a firm basis with the tendency upward. The beef market is very firm and instead of prices declining as generally expected, values are advancing. The offerings of killers this morning was only fair and there was nothing really good on sale. One best beef steers sold at $4.75 and the 1 ulk at $4.60. The top cows sold at $3.40 and $3.25 was paid for the best veal calves, which is about the top for calves. The offerings of feeders and stockers were more liberal than fresh cattle and the gene al run was fair in quality. Prices range on steers from $2.50 to $3.90, with dull selling at $3.85 to $3.90. The demand for all classes of cattle is very strong this week, and good feeding stock sells readily. The demand for stock cattle shows considerable firmness and the outlook is for a good movement on that class of stock this spring. The market opens the week in fine shape and a clearance will be made daily.

Hogs—The run of hogs was liberal for Monday and prices ruled from 10@5 cents higher. The demand opened strong and a clearance was made this morning. The top lots sold at $7.30 and the bulk at $7.25 to $7.30. The quality of the offerings was fairly good and their prices were paid. The demand for hogs this week will be normal, about 500 a day.

Sheep—Sheep receipts were light and there were no sales this morning. The demand is strong for mutons and lambs and the market is firm with higher prices prevailing.

Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated leaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect." For sale by all druggists.

ELECTRO-MAGNETINE

AN ELECTRO-MAGNETIC AND ANTISEPTIC CAMPHORATED

CREAM EMULSION

A WONDERFUL REMEDY AND

A BOON TO BOTH MAN AND BEAST.

THE OUTCOME OF TWENTIETH CENTURY ADVANCE IN

ELECTRO-CHEMICAL SCIENCE.

POSSESSED OF MARVELOUS PROPERTIES.

ELECTRO-MAGNETINE is believed to be the only preparation yet devised for curative purposes endowed with such peculiar properties that when applied to any part of the human body, accompanied with brisk rubbing with the naked hands, it causes an active and in fact electric magnetic action to be set up in the parts to which it is applied.

Whether this potency of this peculiar form of electro-magnetic force, invisible or animal, magnetism, or whatever it may properly be termed, in curing certain forms of nervous maladies has been exaggerated beyond the credulity of doubt.

Many ELECTRO-MAGNETINE is actually charged with electro magnetic properties infused into it in the process of manufacture, or whether it serves merely as a medium through which electromagnetic forces are developed by active rubbing and which are, through it, transferred or applied to the parts operated upon we are not yet quite prepared to say, but of one thing we are certain, viz: That the combined use of ELECTRO MAGNETINE and active rubbing is much more efficient in a curative way than either of the agencies employed separately.

The free application of the ELECTRO MAGNETINE to the skin, followed by vigorous rubbing with the bare hands, will cause the affected parts such an active electro magnetic action as to greatly promote the circulation of the blood through the swollen parts and thereby facilitate the action and consequent reduction of swelling, with its accompanying pain.

IMPORTANCE OF THOROUGH RUBBING

Too much cannot be laid upon the importance of thorough and vigorous rubbing of the affected parts after a free application of the ELECTRO MAGNETINE. In fact, the brisk rubbing should be kept up until the surface to which the ELECTRO-MAGNETINE has been applied has become quite dry and wholly free from the lubricated feel and glossy look due to the application of the Cream. In all Chronic, or long standing, Swelling or Inflammation, the thorough course of treatment above directed should be applied two or three times a day.

WEAK BACKS MADE STRONG

By a somewhat protracted use of ELECTRO MAGNETINE, accompanied with thorough rubbing, or massage, weak backs are made strong. Sore Muscles and Lame Backs, whether arising from straining, over-exertion or Kidney Complaint of the system, are relieved, as if by magic, by the thorough application of this remedy. Foot ball and base ball players are among those loudest in their praises of it as giving most prompt relief from Muscle pain, Lameness and Soreness caused by over-exertion and strains.

Especially has ELECTRO MAGNETINE proven its power to cure Gouty Joints, Swollen or Enlarged and Stiff Old Joints, whether arising from Rheumatic, Gouty or other conditions of the system, which cause inflammation, effusion and consequent enlargement of the joints.

IN ALL CHRONIC OR LINGERING AFFECTIONS,

For the cure of which ELECTRO MAGNETINE is recommended it should be thoroughly applied two or three times daily as above directed—not omitting thorough rubbing with the bare hands.

OWNERS OF LIVE STOCK

Should know that ELECTRO MAGNETINE is quite as effective in a curative way when applied to horses and cattle suffering from Sprains, Bruises, Lameness, Swollen or Stiffened Joints and kindred affections, as when applied to human flesh.

Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines, throughout the United States and Canada at 50 cents or sent post paid by the manufacturers on receipt of this price or postage stamps or postal order.

[illegible] ADDRESS [illegible] STATE MESSAGE

[illegible] of Work [illegible] Some Business Was Disposed of—House Decided to Repeal [illegible] Tax Sections of Revenue [illegible]

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Denver, March 9.—The short appropriation bill for $177,000 to pay salaries of state employes and incidental expenses passed the senate this morning. This is the bill that has caused such a commotion about the state house for a couple of weeks.

The civil service bill of which Senator Lewis is the author, took up the greater part of today's session but no headway was made toward its adoption.

Announcement was made in the senate that the house had passed the following senate bills with emergency clause inserted: Senate bill No 13 providing for maintenance and expenditures of state insane asylum; senate bill No 35, providing for support of the penitentiary for the years 1903 and 1904; senate bill No 44 providing for maintenance and incidental expenses of state industrial school at Golden.

Senator Counterth in behalf of his bill for community property rights presented a great many petition from women's clubs throughout the state.

SENATE HAD WARM DEBATE OVER HOUSE MEDICAL BILL

All persons suffering from any sort of ailment should have been in the senate today to hear the remedies proposed by senators. Every known school or system of medicine was discussed and its secrets laid bare. The subject of discussion was house bill No 81 which is a bill to protect the public health, regulate the practice of medicine and prohibit the distribution of freak advertising matter tending to infate public morals. Senator Jefferson who is a physician is trying hard to have the bill passed. Senator Kush denounced the perpetrators of the bill as scheming humbugs and fakers who are looking for a clinch. He said in part:

"If you want a clinch bill you will vote for it but if you want a fair bill you will vote against it. Did you ever see a clinch bill? It not, let me tell the greatest graft for thieves and the narrowest minded lot of individuals that ever came down the pike. It begins running right quick so I am sure St Louis and it is the best graft bill that ever came along. Physicians in Denver were also undertakers and it seems they have not yet forgotten that part of their business. He made several national associations again Dr Vanmeter and several hot arguments ensued between senators. No progress whatever was made in regard to this bill so far as action was concerned.

HOUSE WOULD NOT REPEAL THE FLAT TAX SECTIONS

In the house the Belford bill designed for repealing the flat tax was killed by a party vote with the exception of Aitken and Dolph who voted with Democrats to repeal the flat tax sections in the revenue bill. The Democrats argued that the law at present catches only the small corporations while the big ones evade its provisions and therefore it was more than useless. The Warner bill increasing the income of the University of Colorado from one fifth of a mill to two fifths of a mill on the state valuation passed the house today. This will give the university an income of $140,000 annually double the amount formerly received. The strike resolution adopted by the house was fathered by Breckenridge and Whinnery and is drafted to pay the expenses of an examination into conditions at Colorado City.

THE STRIKE RESOLUTIONS AS PASSED BY THE HOUSE.

The following are the strike resolutions as passed by the house:

"Whereas, Under section 3 chapter 63 of the session laws of 1897 page 106 it was made to appear to the governor of the state of Colorado that a tumult, riot and mob was threatened at and in the vicinity of Colorado City, El Paso county, Colo in pursuance of such statute the governor did order a portion of the National guard within the limits of such territory to aid the civil authority in maintaining order and peace and to support the law and

"Whereas The said National guard is still so stationed under the power limited as aforesaid and

"Whereas There is a strike among the laboring men of said district therefore employed at the mills and reduction works and the same is still unsettled and

"Whereas The employers on the one side and the workingmen on the other have not submitted their grievances or differences to the governor of this state or to the state board of arbitration now therefore, be it

Resolved By the house of representatives of the Fourteenth General assembly of the state of Colorado the senate concurring thereto That it is the sense of the general assembly of the state of Colorado that it is the duty of both sides to frame a statement of their differences and submit them to the governor of the state of Colorado the state board of arbitration or such other persons as may be agreed upon to enable them to take such steps as they may deem expedient with a view to bringing whatever differences or disagreements or troubles that may exist between the laboring men and their employers to such a settlement as will be just to both sides.

MR CROUTER HAS SETTLED FOR MUNSELL'S DEFALCATION.

Mr Charles W Crouter, ex-auditor and Mr George Post, his attorney called today at the state auditor's office and paid the shortage of the former clerk of the flat tax department, Williams Munsell. The amount paid to Mr Newton state treasurer was $6,000 which entirely covered the defalcation of Munsell. It was 11 o'clock this morning that Mr Crouter, Mr Post and a representative of the American Bonding & Trust company of Baltimore, Md, the company that was on Mr Crouter's bond of $30,000 entered the state capitol and were ushered into Mr Newton's private office where the checks were completed. Mr Crouter's personal bond was cancelled which completely relieves Mr Crouter from all liability on the part of the state for the funds misappropriated by Munsell. Over $12,000 was paid the clerk of the district court by Mr Crouter this morning he having been ordered to do so by Judge Carpenter. Mr Crouter still holds $22,000 of the flat tax fund paid to him under protest and he cannot turn this sum over until the court so orders.

RUMORS THAT GOULD HAS BOUGHT MOFFAT LINE

Rumor is afloat that George J Gould has bought Moffat's Short Line from Denver to Salt Lake City and Senator Charles San Pedro left from Salt Lake to the east. It is the belief in railway circles that it is Mr Gould's intention to organize a transcontinental railroad which will defy all competition. It is also thought that Mr Gould is back of him in this movement, in which event the United States Steel corporation will have control of vast coal and iron interests in the country through which the Moffat road will pass.

CONDENSED NEWS OF THE STATE AND CAPITAL

BILLS BECOME LAWS Governor Peabody today signed the following senate bills: No 18 relating to delinquent children; No 19 providing punishment for persons responsible for contributing to the delinquency of children; No 20 providing fees to be paid district attorneys for prosecuting cases against delinquent children; No 21 confers original jurisdiction upon county courts in all criminal cases against minors; No 22 to compel compulsory elementary education in school districts of the first and second class. All these bills were introduced by Senator Bailey and have been frequently referred to as the juvenile bills.

INVESTIGATING BANKS [illegible] institutions are to have their books examined by experts. A delegation of this city was in this morning by the legislative committee on public institutions. So far the only books examined have been those at the Boys' Industrial school at Golden and they were found in good shape.

TROUBLE REPORTED [illegible] President of the Colorado & Southern, J H Herbert and Superintendent of Motive Power Thomas Paxton have had a falling out, it being stated that Mr Paxton sent in his resignation yesterday over the phone. This has caused a great deal of comment in railway circles.

NEW LATTER DAY SAINTS The Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints has been holding a district conference in this city. Several hundred of the Latter Day believers have repudiated the Salt Lake church and with new theories reorganized. The main feature of the new organization is that polygamy and celestial marriage are disapproved. This branch of Latter Day Saints regards the bible as the word of God, and the Book of Mormon a history of the aboriginal religious movements. A book that is held by this new peculiar sect as of much greater importance than the Book of Mormon is the Book of Doctrines and Revelations. There has been a large attendance at the meetings and the church membership is over 1,000 while the Sunday school has 500 members.

TO MEET IN DENVER—It is rumored in local railroad circles that A C Bird, the new traffic director of the Gould system and J C Stubbs the new traffic manager for the Harriman syndicate will meet in Denver within a couple of weeks.

CATTLE STARVING—The offices of the Humane society are being deluged with complaints that cattle are suffering and starving on the ranges throughout the state. Every mail brings letters regarding conditions that an ordinary mind would find it difficult to conceive. The creatures are dying by the thousands while the owners are utterly unable to take care of them.

SILVER TEA—The Ladies of the G A R will give a silver tea this evening at 222 North Weber street.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time."

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book are accurately descriptive of my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. Hayes, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to day I am a well woman."

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. Hayes, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women, all ovarian troubles, tumors, inflammations, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, backache, irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine, do not forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5,000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their entire genuineness.

[illegible] Proposes to Put a Mine in Active Operation on St. Louis' Fair Grounds.

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Victor March 9.—H S Edmondson of this city is planning a novel exhibit for the coming World's Exposition at St. Louis. His scheme is to put a mine, including shaft house, pit drifts and everything in actual mining operation on the grounds, charging a small fee to go down the shaft and see what mining really is. He is now in correspondence with the fair commission regarding the project and feels sure that if he can get the desired concession from the commissioners, he will have no trouble in financing the scheme and pushing it to a success.

THIEVES CAUGHT—A watch valued at $250 was stolen from Charles Fry at the Roxbury saloon in this city. Fry had just hung his vest in the front part of the saloon while he went to work in one of the mines of this locality. Returning off shift, he immediately went to look for his vest which was there but the watch was gone.

A description of the watch was immediately sent out to officers in Colorado and late this afternoon word was received from Colorado Springs that they had captured two men, Carl Westcott alias Carl Conaley and Walt Waddel, professional crooks, giving their address as San Francisco. After their arrest Westcott confessed to the theft. Officers left this city this evening and will return with the prisoners tomorrow.

KING'S FUNERAL—The funeral of Henry King, who was killed Saturday night at the Portland mine by falling 1[illegible] feet down a stope, will be held in this city tomorrow. The body will be taken from his home in Goldfield and brought to the Miners Union hall in this city, where services will be held under the auspices of Miners union No 32 A O U W, Odd Fellows Degree of Honor and A O P lodges of which deceased was a member. At 3.55 the remains will be escorted to the Short Line train and will be sent to Denver where interment will take place.

WAS IMPLICATED—Red Price who was arrested in this city and afterwards taken to Denver to answer the charge of murder, has been identified as one of the men who robbed Conners saloon at the Five Points. The men who identified Price say it was his companion who shot Boyle.

SKIN-TORTURED BABIES AND TIRED MOTHERS

[illegible] of exultation over the "[illegible]" of [illegible], of earth's saints. Mrs. McAfee was widely known and highly esteemed, equally prominent and memorable in America with her husband in the founding and direction of Park college, one of the auxiliary Park college family. She shared with him all its early hopes and trials and progress, and long survived him to see a degree of success far beyond the highest expectation of any but the faithful ones. The death of Mrs. McAfee would not have surprised her friends at any time within the last twenty years, during which she has suffered with lingering pulmonary trouble. For the last half of that time she had lived almost continuously in her home in Colorado Springs (where she died February 6), or with her son in Aurora. In all those years her constant companion and attendant was her only daughter. For four years she has not been strong enough to revisit the college. Through correspondence, however, and by frequent visits of her sons, she had kept in closest touch and sympathy with its life and work. Thus, while unable to continue her active advice and guidance in college matters, she was yet enabled, as all believed, to do a still more valuable service by the only means left to her—her intelligent, reverent unfailing prayer. Few of those who knew Mrs. McAfee can realize that one who had not finished her sixty-fifth year could have accomplished so much herself, or have lived to see so much accomplished by her six children. All of them are graduates of Park college, and have devoted to its interests years of their lives since graduation. The eldest son, Lowell M. McAfee, is his father's only successor as the president of the college. The second son, Howard B., is college treasurer and business manager. The youngest son, Joseph Ernest, is the college chaplain. The other sons are now in the pastorate—Lapsley A. McAfee, D. D., in Phoenix, Arizona, and Charles H. McAfee, D. D., in the Forty-first Street Presbyterian church, Chicago. All of these participated in the funeral services. Dr. L. A. McAfee read the twenty-fourth psalm a portion of which was the last earthly utterance of his mother, and spoke on the scriptures as a source of comfort. Dr. S. L. McAfee, brother-in-law of the deceased, read scripture selections and offered prayer. The principal address was made by Dr. C. H. McAfee, who spoke on the lessons taught by his mother's life. The speaker said that as he entered his pulpit a few hours after her death, it was with a feeling of intense loneliness, as it had always been her habit to spend much of the hour of public service in prayer that her husband and her sons might be efficient in the presentation of the truth as it is in Jesus. But then came the thought that never again would he feel lonely on that account, as she is now where her prayers will be purer and more prevailing. In full assurance that his mother has gone to be with her Savior, the son closed with a strong, manly appeal to every hearer to give himself, as she had done, unreservedly to the Savior. The day of the funeral was an ideally beautiful winter's day. Like it, the service was calm, clear, inspiring. The larger part of the audience, most of them afoot, accompanied the body to the village cemetery about a mile away, on a high, sightly hilltop overlooking the college campus and the broad valley of the Missouri. There they laid the body to rest beside that of her husband. A few stanzas of Rock of Ages were sung. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. C. H. McAfee and all was over.

what his wife says.

"My wife says 'nothing will do but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy,'" says H. W. Dockham, publisher of the Gazette, Lindsay, Cal. "There is many another good wife of the same opinion. The quick relief which this remedy affords in cases of coughs, colds and croup, and the fact that it is pleasant and safe to take makes it a favorite everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin tortured babies and rest for tired, worried mothers in warm baths with Cuticura Soap, and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, purest of skin cures, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent Pills. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent and inexpensive treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted and pimply skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infants and children, as well as adults, when science fails to succeed when all other means fail and the best physicians fail.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to stand wearily come with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Amusements

"WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER."

Julia Marlowe's famous original production of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," which will receive its premiere at the Opera house this evening, gives Effie Ellsler splendid opportunities for the display of her marvelous powers. In the first act of the play dramatized by Paul Kester from Charles Major's novel of Sixteenth century life, Mary Tudor's imperious irrepressible nature calls for constantly varying moods on the part of the actress. The spoiled sister of Henry VIII., who was said to be the only good woman in her brother's court, is an April-day girl all through, as charming Effie Ellsler portrays her. Her frank wooing of Charles Brandon, a humble captain in the royal guard, is delicious love making. Her artless appeals to her lady-in-waiting, Jane Bollinbroke, are pronounced the deftest examples of high comedy seen on the stage. In her youth's costume, worn in the second act and third, she is a charming and very comely figure and in the more tragic moments of the play she is aptly impressive.

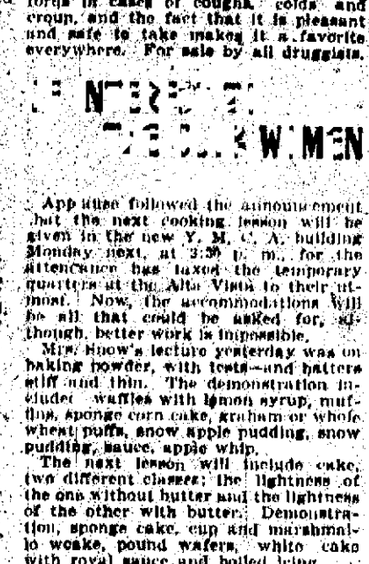
The supporting company is a large one, Manager Frank L. Perley making his selection from the ablest artists in the profession.

Miss Ellsler's leading man, Walter H. Seymour, who portrays Charles Brandon, the valiant lover of Princess Mary Tudor, is a handsome manly fellow. His famous duel scene with Sir Adam Judson, as portrayed by Robert B. Keggerris, is described as the finest bit of sword play seen on the American stage in many years. Irene Timmons is a guileless and charming Lady Jane Bollingbroke. Sadie Harris is a saucy Anne Boleyn and Barbara Douglas is a stately and impressive Queen Catherine.

FUNERAL OF MRS. M'AFEE WAS ATTENDED BY HUNDREDS

In its issue of February 28, the Interior, a church publication, gives a detailed account of the funeral of Mrs. John A. McAfee, whose death at Colorado Springs was a shock to many friends here. Following is the account of the funeral that appeared in the Interior:

Probably every person that attended the funeral of Mrs. John A. McAfee, which occurred at Parkville, Mo., February 11, 1903, declared it the most remarkable he had ever known. McCormick Chapel, in which the exercises were held, was crowded with some four hundred of the trustees, faculty and students of the college, and hundreds of other friends from a distance as well as from the village. Never, perhaps, not even on commencement days, has Parkville seen such a profusion of floral tributes. Never did the large college choir and the glee club sing more sweetly. Not a note of sadness was struck by any singer or speaker. Not a trace of crape was seen. Tears of grief and loving memory were not lacking, but far more conspicuous was a



Applause followed the announcement that the next cooking lesson will be given in the new Y. M. C. A. building Monday next, at 3:30 p. m., for the attendance has taxed the temporary quarters at the Alta Vista to their utmost. Now, the accommodations will be all that could be asked for, although better work is impossible.

Mrs. Snow's lecture yesterday was on baking powder, with tests—and batters stiff and thin. The demonstration included waffles with lemon syrup, muffins, sponge corn cake, graham or whole wheat puffs, snow apple pudding, snow pudding, sauce, apple whip.

The next lesson will include cake, two different classes; the lightness of the one without butter and the lightness of the other with butter. Demonstration, sponge cake, cup and marshmallo wonks, pound wafers, white cake with royal sauce and boiled icing.

The popularity of Miss Flansburg, as leader of the Four O'clock Progress club, was evidenced yesterday afternoon by the attendance at an open meeting held by the club in the Alta Vista assembly room. More than 100 women were present and thoroughly enjoyed Miss Flansburg's resume of Dante's Divine Comedy, illustrated so fully with charts, and accompanied by critical comments. A birdseye view of all the parts was given from the depths of Inferno to the heights of Paradise.

[illegible] ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

At a meeting of the High school students yesterday afternoon a new athletic association was formed with Professor R. E. Hill as president, Clyde Shaefer as vice president and Messrs. McBride, Booth and Moler as members of the finance committee. Several changes were desired in the constitution and methods of the old association, and it was thought best to organize a new association. John Booth was appointed manager of the baseball team and Ronald Davidson manager of the track team. An assessment of 25 cents was levied on each of the 60 members of the association, and the money will be used to purchase the necessary equipment for the baseball and track teams.

The track team will soon begin training under the direction of Captain Roy Gaunt. The baseball team, under Captain Tyler, has been working during the past week, and yesterday a large squad turned out for practice. Arrangements for the perfecting of the southern interscholastic league to be composed of Colorado Springs High school, Cutler Academy and Central and Centennial High schools of Pueblo are about complete, and a meeting will be held in the near future to adopt a schedule for the season.

[illegible] GYMNASIUM

Many People Present at Opening

The gymnasium of the new Y. M. C. A. building was formally opened last night under the most auspicious circumstances. Nearly 400 people were in the gallery to witness the work of the first class in the gymnasium work, and the basketball game between the High school and Cutler academy which followed. After putting the members of the class through light work, Prof. W. H. Stillwell, the physical director, called the basketball game. The contest was one of the most exciting games of the kind ever in this city for a great while. At the end of the first half the score was 7 to 3 in favor of the academy boys, but the High school rallied in the next half and won out by a final score of 12 to 8. Some real, genuine rooting developed among the spectators and the walls of the building rang with cheers and yells at every good play.

After the game the crowd, which included many grown people, inspected the building. An admission fee of 10 cents was charged to spectators, the money so raised being devoted to the gymnasium fund. The classes will be held in the gymnasium according to the schedule from now on.

Following is the line-up of the game last evening with the score:

High School.	Cutler Academy.
Fowler, w	French, f
Davidson, f	Irish, f
Muir, c (c)	McClintock, c (c)
Cox, g	McCreery, g
Ward, g	Merrill, g

First half—Field throws—Muir 1, French 1, McClintock 1; free throws—Davidson 1, French 3. Second half—Field throws—Fowler 1, Muir 2; free throws—Fowler 1, Davidson 2, French 2; officials—Stillwell, referee; Shaw, umpire; length of halves, 15 minutes.

YOUTHFUL FANS ARE ORGANIZING LEAGUES

The work of organizing a city amateur baseball league will be taken up in a short time. In all probability the Strang City league of last year will be reorganized this season. Already one amateur team has been started and if good weather continues the young fans will fast fall in line. It is thought a much stronger organization can be effected this season than last and that a good eight-club league can be formed.

The Garrett Boys team was organized last night, with John W. Garrett backing it. Harry H. Bean is the manager of the team and application for membership may be made to him at 1519 Colorado avenue. A mask dance will be given for the benefit of the team in the near future.

[illegible] NEWS NOTES

Captain "Bill" Everitt of the Millionaires, came down from Denver last night to get acquainted with the town before the season begins. Captain Everitt has been in Denver for several months but has not been in Colorado Springs since the close of the season last fall. He is now on his way to Pueblo to take the baths and get into shape for active work as soon as the players begin to arrive. He is enthusiastic over the team's prospects and says he thinks he has about as good a bunch of ball players to work with as any captain in the league. "I think we ought to finish up towards the top this year if the men we have signed come up to our expectations," said Everitt last night, in talking over the prospects of the team. He says he expects the men to begin coming in about the end of this week and that as soon as a fair-sized bunch can be got together he will start work. Everitt will return to this city in about a week.

"BOXER" IS NOT AN ORDINARY CANINE

Boxing among dogs has been known among circus canines for some time, but with "Boxer," owned by Dr. Charles B. Banks, is the first real animal with pugilistic tendencies in that line, that has taken up his residence in this city. "Boxer" is an expert and is quite a sport. He can show other dogs cards and spades on punching the bag and does not stoop to a mere street brawl in which biting and scratching is depended upon to overcome an opponent. "Boxer" is able to land a real knockout blow with his right or left as the case may be to the solar plexus, jaw, or other equally vital points. "Boxer" was recently brought to this city by his master, Dr. Charles B. Banks, who will make his residence here. Dr. Banks is a dog fancier and will establish kennels here for breeding and training "boxing" dogs. "Boxer" is a Boston terrier and is valued at $1,000. Dr. Banks is a friend of J. W. Coffey, the well-known real estate man of this city.

TRANSPORTATION SENT TO MILLIONAIRE PLAYERS

Secretary Howard Masterson of the local baseball team, yesterday finished sending transportation to all the men signed for the Millionaires of 1903. The transportation is for many thousand miles as the men are scattered all over the country from California on the west, to Connecticut on the east. Francks is in Los Angeles, California; Flemming is in Windsor Locks, Connecticut, and Dolan is in Tampa, Florida. The men have been ordered to report in Colorado Springs not later than March 20. Several will be here before that date. Active training will begin Monday, March 23.

UNIFORMS FOR THE COLLEGE BALL PLAYERS

An order was sent through Strang, yesterday, by Manager Van Nostran and Captain Reed of the college baseball team, for several new uniforms to fill out the equipment of the team. The uniforms to be used this year will be the same as those of last season, bluish gray blouse and trousers, black sweater, black cap, and black stockings. Yellow or gold will not figure in the trimmings, the straight gray and black colors being used. The college will play its first game on March 21, with West Denver High school in this city. The first championship game will be played in this city April 4 with Fort Collins, if there is no game scheduled for that date in which the Millionaires take part.

By Associated Press.

JOE WALCOTT WINS FROM MIKE DONOVAN

By Associated Press.

Pittsburg, March 9.—In the 10-round fight tonight between Joe Walcott and Mike Donovan, Walcott secured the decision. Donovan stood his punishment well but was entirely outclassed by the negro who landed blows when and where he pleased, except in the sixth and seventh rounds when Donovan made a stand and kept his opponent busy avoiding his fierce rushes. Neither man was severely punished in the bout.

MEXICA PETE GIVES ANOTHER EXHIBITION

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, March 9.—Gus Ruhlin and Mexican Pete Everett were scheduled to go six rounds at the Washington club tonight. The bout, however, lasted but a few minutes, and was a miserable exhibition on the part of Everett. At the beginning of the second round he received a right hand blow on the face, droped to the floor and took the count.

COL. BROWN READS RIOT ACT TO BURR

men and I am not here to bandy words but to tell you and you and you," pointing to each one, beginning with Burr, "one, two, three, four, five, six—each one of you here that we will hold you responsible if anything happens."

Charles Burr's face was crimson. He advanced to Colonel Brown and shouted:

"You can't scare me! Don't you try to come in here and curse me. I am an American citizen and I rely upon my rights as such."

"Look here, now," answered Colonel Brown, "you have heard what I said and you understand me. There is to be no more trouble from you if you don't want trouble that you will be sorry for. We are not here to take any foolishness from you; understand that."

"I want to refute everything you have said; it is not true," still shouted Mr. Burr.

"Very well," said Colonel Brown, "we will test you."

"And we will not call in our pickets," retorted Burr.

The officers left the room. For a moment no one spoke. The four men of the detail closed in after the officers and went down the stairs to the street. The entire interview had lasted three minutes.

Then C. R. Burr gave out the following statement in his capacity as representative of the Western Federation of Miners in behalf of the executive committee of Miners union No. 125.

"That man said our pickets had been firing on them. I simply stated to him our pickets were unarmed and if armed they did it on their own responsibility. He used the most abusive language ever used by an officer in his position. I submit my record along with Mr. Brown's and it will bear out the record with the best that may be said about Mr. Brown."

The officers of the union remained in their room. The curtains were put up and they watched from the brilliantly-lighted interior the preparations being made on the street for the picketing of the Reed building. Captain Bryan had eight of his men across the street, keeping back the crowd, while three men patrolled the sidewalk in front of the headquarters. Two men were stationed back of the building, where there is an entrance. These had orders to challenge anyone attempting to enter as a measure of precaution, it being deemed wiser to see that no arms were taken into the building.

SIDEWALKS BLOCKED.

The sidewalks became blocked and the orders were given to clear them. There was a disposition not to move until the order was given sharply by Captain Bryan and the bayonets were presented. After that there was no more trouble.

It was a thoroughly good-natured crowd to all appearances and the strikers remained at a distance, quiet and orderly. Occasionally, as Major A. H. Williams, assistant adjutant general, who had arrived, was in conference with Colonel Brown, commands had to be given to eavesdroppers to keep away.

Mayor Faulkner came up with members of the police department and sought Colonel Brown in the center of the street. The situation was explained to him.

"I am picketing these headquarters here," said Colonel Brown, "as I deem it necessary to do so. Those men in there are responsible for the firing on our men, and we are taking this measure to convince them that we do not propose to stand for it."

Colonel Brown asked Mayor Faulkner if the report was true that a deputy sheriff bearing a commission from Sheriff Gilbert had been arrested yesterday afternoon by the Colorado City police on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

"I know nothing about that," returned Mayor Faulkner. "Two men only have been arrested this afternoon and your informant is not correct."

"I wish to compliment you," returned Colonel Brown, "on the excellent order maintained in the city and the orderly way in which the saloon-patrons conduct themselves, and I trust Mr. Mayor, that nothing will interfere to disturb these pleasant relations between the civil authorities and ourselves.

"I am sure that we will be glad to cooperate with you in all ways possible to maintain order," returned the mayor.

The crowd had edged up and surrounded the two. There was a faint cheer when the mayor replied and Colonel Brown's hand was grasped several times as he made his way to the other side of the street, where a small office with a telephone had been placed at his disposal. While telephoning to General Chase, who was in Denver, Representative Burr came into the room.

"What can I do for you, Mr. Burr?" asked Colonel Brown.

"Nothing, Colonel," replied Burr, smiling and went out, closing the door. The situation and the action taken in picketing strikers' headquarters was reported to Denver and the governor notified. Colonel Brown and the party with him then walked up Colorado avenue to Camp Peabody.

All passes were taken up last night and the countersign only was the open sesame of admittance.

MINORITY IN UTAH HOUSE RESENTED BEING PRAYED FOR

By Associated Press.

Salt Lake, March 9.—A special prayer for the minority (Democratic) members of the lower branch of the legislature, uttered by Chaplain Porter at the opening of today's session of the house, provoked the wrath of the Democrats who sharply criticised Dr. Porter for his utterances and later introduced a resolution dismissing him from further service in the house. The resolution was defeated by a strict party vote.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP

FAST HOLD TAKEN BY PERUNA

Congressman Geo. W. White's Case.

A Noted Sculptress Cured.

The World of Medicine recognizes Grip as epidemic catarrh.—Medical Talk.

LA GRIPPE is epidemic catarrh, it appears in class or nationality, cultured and the ignorant, aristocrat and the pauper, the classes and the masses are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, have the grip got you? Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip." Without intending to do so a new word has been coined that logically describes the case. As of some hideous giant with awful grip had clutched us in its fatal clare. Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Peruna for Grip.

Mrs. Theophile Schmitt, wife of the ex-Secretary of the German Consulate, writes the following letter from 263 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.:

"I suffered this winter with a severe attack of la grippe. After using three bottles of Peruna I found the grippe disappeared." Mrs. T. Schmitt.

Mrs. Celeste Covell, writer, 1[illegible] N. avenue, Aurora, Ill.:

"Only those who have suffered from la grippe and been cured can appreciate how grateful I feel that this splendid medicine, Peruna, has been placed at the door of every suffering person." Mrs. C. Covell.

Noted Sculptress Cured of Grip.

Mrs. M. C. Cowell, of the Royal Academy of Arts, of London, England, now residing in Washington, D. C., one of the greatest living sculptors and painters of the world, says:

"I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh and la grippe. I have suffered for months and after the use of one bottle of Peruna I was entirely well." Mrs. M. C. Cowell.

D. L. Wallace, a church member of the International Bible Students, writes from 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

[illegible] TRUST

By Associated Press.

Denver, March 9.—F. P. Wolfe, chairman of the board of county commissioners of the old county of Arapahoe, through his attorney, L. L. Bottom, today applied to the United States circuit court for an injunction to restrain the officials of the new city and county of Denver from assuming and performing the duties of their offices, and a writ of mandamus compelling C. S. Elder, treasurer of the new county and city organization and formerly treasurer of Arapahoe county, to pay the warrants issued by the old board of county commissioners since the date on which the constitutional amendment changing the organization went into effect.

The claim is set up that the public property of the old county has been given to Denver without compensation to the taxpayers of the old county outside the limits of Denver. It is further set forth that the old officers were elected for special term of office, and that the provisions of the Rush amendment are in violation of the constitution of the United States. The case will be argued March 18.

[illegible] SCULPTORS

By Associated Press.

St. Louis, March 9.—In the circuit court today Judge Wood made permanent the temporary injunction granted last October against Bennett, Wasserman, et al., ticket scalpers, restraining them from buying or selling World's fair excursion tickets. The temporary injunction was granted at the instance of all the railroads entering St. Louis and was argued recently.

One, that of the Wabash, was decided today. It was agreed by the attorneys representing the scalpers and the railroads that the other suits should abide by the result of the Bennett-Wasserman case. While the suits were brought in the names of the railroads, the World's fair took an active part in the prosecution of them, on the railroads had insisted that without the protection of the courts against the scalpers they could not afford to make low rates.

The scalpers did not deny that they were dealing in the nontransferable tickets, but set up as a defense that the railroads were in an unlawful pooling agreement and had no right to limit the sale of tickets. Both of these contentions were decided in favor of the railroads, the court holding that the Western Passenger association was a lawful association, by no wise conflicting with any state or federal statute, and that in consideration of a reduced rate the railroads have the power to make tickets non-transferable.

Every contention was ruled against the scalpers by the court.

[illegible] MEASURE

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 9.—The senate committee on foreign relations will not meet tomorrow to take up the Cuban treaty but will do so on Wednesday. Quite a number of Democratic senators are opposed to the treaty and while they say they have no desire to prevent a vote they intend briefly to present their views on the measure. The Republicans who favor the treaty count on three or four more votes than the necessary two-thirds majority to ratify it. There is a probability of some discussion of the constitutional right in the senate to make a treaty affecting the revenues of the government without the concurrence of the house of representatives. Some opponents of the Cuban treaty have told members of the foreign relations committee that they think it is such an important question that the treaty might be delayed until the regular session of congress. Others have suggested that there should be an amendment providing that the treaty should not become operative until its provisions have been approved by the house. Some members of the committee think that the much disputed question ought to go to the supreme court and be settled there. It is the present intention of the foreign relations committee to press the Cuban treaty to a vote as soon as the Colombian treaty is out of the way.

WINS FOR O'KEEFE IN SIXTH ROUND OF O'KEEFE-BRITT BOUT.

Britt in Mix Up Sends Left Below the Belt and Referee Gives Decision to O'Keefe—Britt Clearly the Winner.

By Associated Press.

Portland, Ore., March 9.—Jack O'Keefe of Chicago was given the decision on a foul tonight on the sixth round of a contest with James Britt of San Francisco at the Eastern club. Both men changed their Britt but O'Keefe held his own with his left to Britt's mouth and body. Britt had the right well in hand up to the sixth round, at which time it was clearly apparent that O'Keefe was blinking protests from his seconds was very groggy. Coming out for the sixth round O'Keefe knocked Britt in the sixth round, landing heavily on the ribs and right on the ear.

Early in the round Britt, in a mix up, struck O'Keefe below the belt and O'Keefe stopped and claimed the decision. Referee Graney ruled against Britt and gave the decision to O'Keefe. Britt's face and body bore the marks of the sixth round. The referee ordered Britt not to commit a foul [illegible] and they started to mix up. Britt, who is much the quicker of the two, hit O'Keefe a terrific uppercut and he fell to the floor on O'Keefe's seconds and he claimed the fight. Referee Graney decided the fight in favor of O'Keefe. The crowd examined Britt's [illegible] and took a dozen pulls and [illegible] Britt threw up his hands [illegible] the decision, [illegible] that he had submitted no foul.

Most of the money on the fight was placed at odds of [illegible] with Britt the favorite.
